Talk about amnesty

Amnesty plan

Suggest civilian service periods

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Cabinet officers Saturday recommended that, as "a unique act of mercy," more than 28,000 Vietnam era military deserters and draft dodgers be allowed to earn their way back by spending up to 18 months in civilian public service.

Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger and Atty. Gen. William Saxbe also told President Ford that returning deserters and draft evaders should be required to "exacute a formal pledge for alternate service including a form of reaffirmation of allegiance to the United States."

They suggested that the term spent working in hospitals, schools, environmental work and other community or charitable organizations could be reduced "in consideration of the circumstances of individual cases."

White House sources said Ford is expected to announce a conditional amnesty program next week. Press Secretary Jerald F. terHorst cautioned that the recommendations are "not necessarily what is going to come out."

He said Ford "has some ideas of his own that amend the recommendation."

Ford intends to put his program into effect through executive action, said terHorst, declaring that "no congressional action would be required."

In response to questions, he said the Ford program would aim at dealing fairly not only with those now abroad or in hiding at home, but also with others who already received have dishonorable discharges or have been convicted and are serving prison terms.

Schlesinger and Saxbe preferred to call the program "earned re-entry" and "reconciliation" rather than amnesty.

"In no way is it intended to condone acts of evasion or desertion," they said.

Spokesmen for draft dodgers and deserters living in Canada and relatives of such men have rejected conditional amnesty or any acknowledgment of wrongdoing. They have insisted on unconditional amnesty, contending that the Vietnam war resisters acted out of conscience.

Schlesinger and Saxbe presented their proposals to Ford at a nearly two-hour White House meeting 12 days after the new President made a surprise announcement opening the way to conditional amnesty.

Ford, who had requested the report, took the recommendations under study. Sources said he asked for additional information.

In a memorandum, Schlesinger and Saxbe said there are about 15,500 draft evaders and 12,838 deserters potentially eligible for the program. About 3,000 of the draft dodgers and some 1,500 deserters are living in Canada, they said.

The Cabinet officers suggested that applications should be accepted starting 30 days from the date Ford 5formally proclaims the program and that deserters and draft dodgers be given 120 days from that time to make their move.

Promoter recounts conversation about drug arrests

(Democrat-Capital Service)

KANSAS CITY — The lawyer member of the group that promoted the Ozark Music Festival in Sedalia told his version Friday of a telephone run-in with a lieutenant of the Missouri Highway Patrol.

David A. Kinton of Kansas City told an investigating committee of the Missouri Senate that he had had a "long and difficult day" when he got a report that trouble had broken out between officers and early arrivals five days before the start of the three-day rock concert July 19-21 at the State Fairgrounds.

"I remember being concerned that we not have another Kent State at Sedalia," he said.

Kinton started making telephone calls to find out what was going on in Sedalia, and he reached Lt. Thomas V. Poindexter of the Highway Patrol at the Pettis County Sherrif's office.

"I am sure Lt. Poindexter had had a long day too," Kinton said.

"He asked me who I was and started asking me questions, but I wanted to ask him questions. I told him I had to have the information and if I had to go to the governor to get it, I'd go to the governor," he continued.

Lt. Poindexter, who is stationed at Lee's Summit, told the committee Thursday that Kinton threatened:

"What right have you to arrest these people? I'll get you for this, I'll get all of you for this."

Fourteen persons were arrested by the Highway Patrol in the raid on the west campgrounds. Two persons are presently facing drug sales charges in Pettis County courts. Eleven persons were released after the raid. Another person later had a drug sales charge against him dismissed.

Kinton told the committee he had no idea that the drug problem would grow as large as it did.

"By Saturday, it was wide open — you didn't have to walk far before you could see someone with a large bag full of capsules," he said.

Kinton was the last person to appear before the six-man Senate investigating committee during hearings Thursday and Friday here. The committee plans to resume hearings at 9 p.m. Wednesday in the Senate lounge in Jefferson City.

He said that the corporation organized to sponsor the festival, Music Productions Inc., spent more than $100,000 to advertise it.

Sen. Richard Webster, R-Carthage, committee chairman, asked Shaw to read a list of stations that carried advertising announcements.

Besides Missouri, they were in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Nebraska.

Webster said the attraction had been represented to state officials as a blue grass or soft rock music festival.

"Was it blue grass and soft rock, or was it hard rock and acid rock?" Sen. Webster asked Shaw.

"Did you in fact have any blue grass performers — and remember you're talking to someone who was raised on blue grass music."

"No, not by a real connoisseur he wouldn't," Webster said.

"Sir," Shaw said, "you're asking me to define types of music, and I don't think I'm prepared to do that."

Sen. Webster noted that most of the radio advertising spots for the festival were done by Wolfman Jack, a national star who has a syndicated rock music show.

"Who prepared the Wolfman Jack copy?" Webster asked.

"Our copy writers," Shaw replied.

"Did that include the statement: 'We're going to spend three days on grass'?"

"In all fairness, he does have a tendency to personalize his spots."

"Did you audit the tapes to see if he followed your copy?"

"Yes."

"In other words, you were satisfied he had followed your copy closely enough?"

"Well, it would have been poor to say: 'We're going to spend three days on the asphalt or the cement.'"

Under questioning by State Sen. Lem T. Jones, R-Kansas City, Shaw said Music Productions Inc. had agreed with the state to limit ticket sales to 50,000.

When Webster took up the point, Shaw acknowledged that the sales of $15 advance tickets was cut off at 50,000 but then $20

Estimate 150 dead after train disaster

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (AP) — An express train carrying homeward-bound vacationers sped through a red light at the Zagreb station and flipped over, killing an estimated 150 persons and injuring 150 more, officials said Saturday.

Nearly 24 hours after the train crashed Friday night, rescue workers were still digging through the tangle of overturned railroad cars, scattered luggage and dismembered bodies. The acrid smell of smoke, burnt rubber and death hung heavy in Zagreb station.

The morgue at Zagreb, Yugoslavia's second largest city with a metropolitan area population of more than half a million, was unable to cope with all the dead. Ambulances carried scores of bodies to morgues in other cities.

The train's engineer and his assistant were arrested on suspicion that neglect had caused the accident, the worst rail disaster in Yugoslavia's history, officials said.

An investigating commission said the train had been traveling at more than 55 miles an hour when it jumped off the rails, instead of the maximum permitted speed of 31 m.p.h.

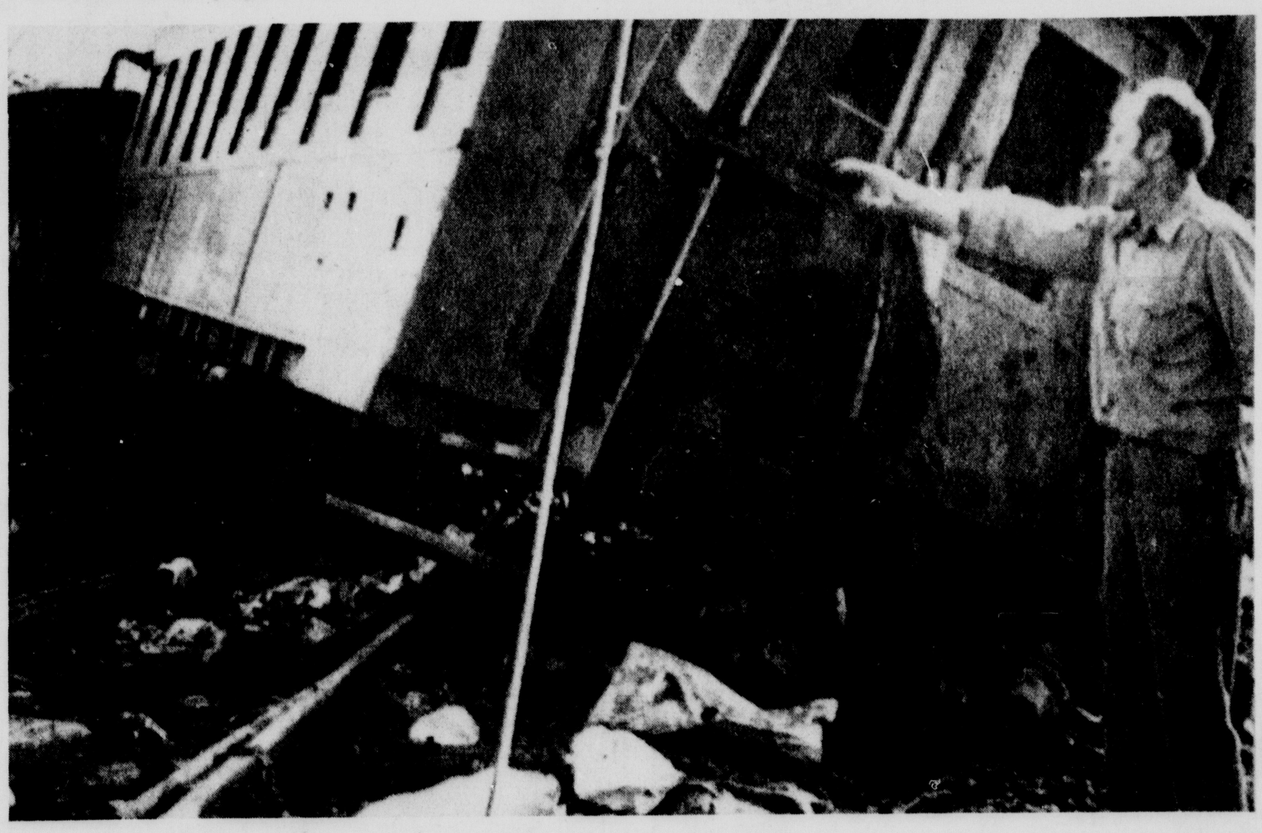

Witnesses said the locomotive snapped loose and roared into the station.

"The crash felt like an earthquake," one of the survivors recalled. "There was a child in my compartment crying. I grabbed his hand and pulled him out alive with me."

Another passenger said three of the six persons in his compartment were killed when the crash overturned the car they were in. He said he managed to climb out, his clothes soaked with blood.

"I'm alive, I'm alive — that's all I know," he said.

Most of the more than 600 persons aboard the Belgrade-to-Dortmund train were vacationing Yugoslav workers returning to their jobs in West Germany.

New Zealand leader dies of heart attack

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — Prime Minister Norman E. Kirk, an opponent of U.S. policy in Vietnam and an advocate of new forms of Asian and Pacific regional cooperation, died Saturday. He was 51.

A government announcement said he died peacefully in a hospital where he was being treated for gastric influenza. He had been in poor health for months with pleurisy.

Deputy Prime Minister Hugh Watt took over the government until the Labor party caucus meets to elect a new leader. Labor has a 55-32 seat majority in Parliament.

In Washington, White House Press Secretary Jerald F. terHorst said President Ford "obviously is deeply sorry" and has sent a private message of condolence to the Kirk family.

The 6-foot, 250-pound "Big Norm" Kirk, a former welder and rail engineer, was elected in November 1972 in a personal triumph that returned the Labor party to power.

He reversed some long-standing government policies. He pulled the remaining New Zealand troops out of South Vietnam shortly after his election.

Hung jury on arrest resistance charge

Bob Hopkins, 41, Liberal, was found guilty of driving while intoxicated Friday in Municipal Court, but a charge of resisting arrest against Hopkins was dismissed because of a hung jury.

The seven-man, five-woman jury deliberated one hour and 15 minutes before reporting its verdict to Municipal Judge Jack Cunningham. The hung jury was reported to be 10-2 favoring a guilty verdict.

Hopkins was fined $150 for the driving while intoxicated charge, but the case will be appealed to Circuit Court, according to defense attorney Craig Cassing.

The city has the option of refiling the resisting arrest charge against Hopkins, but no decision has been made.

Hopkins was arrested on May 25 at Third and Lafayette after Sedalia policeman John DeJarnette and Rene Dedrick stopped Hopkins for allegedly running a stop sign.

Police reported Hopkins used profane language and struck DeJarnette in the acident. Hopkins claimed that he was struck by DeJarnette while in the front seat of a Sedalia patrol car and was sprayed with mace.

The city, represented by city counselor Robert Fritz after city attorney Robert Liston disqualified himself from the case because of his investigation of the police department, called five witnesses including DeJarnette, Dedrick, two eye-witnesses, Ralph Lee, 400 North Ohio; Ronald Ditzfeld, 335 North New York; and Dr. Joseph Maunders, Walnut Hills, who was the emergency room doctor on call May 25 at Bothwell Hosital.

DeJarnette, the first to testify, said after the pickup truck was stopped, Hopkins was unsteady and glassy-eyed and alcohol could be smelled in the truck. After Hopkins was escorted to the right front seat of the patrol car, DeJarnette said that Hopkins told him he was a former Sedalia police officer and "knew the story" and was not going anywhere.

DeJarnette said he was sitting behind the wheel of the car when Hopkins started kicking him in the right thigh, and later in the ribs and face.

DeJarnette said he struck Hopkins after he had been hit in the face. Fritz asked DeJarnette how many times he hit Hopkins and the policeman said, "It all happened so fast I can't say how many times I hit Mr. Hopkins. I didn't hit him until he hit me twice."

DeJarnette said he had to use mace to subdue Hopkins and called Dedrick, who was not in the car at the time, to help handcuff Hopkins. The three then went to Bothwell Hospital where Hopkins was treated for a laceration on his forehead and irritation in his eyes caused by the mace.

The attending physician, Dr. Mauders, said he treated Hopkins' cut, but did not treat him for any other injuries. Under cross examination, Dr. Maunders said he had not noticed any symptoms which would appear that Hopkins was intoxicated.

From there, DeJarnette said, Hopkins was taken to the police station where he was administered a breathilizer test, and a blood-alcohol level of .018 per cent was recorded. (A blood-alcohol level of .010 per cent is an intoxicating level according to Missouri statute.)

Dedrick said Hopkins was beligerant when asked to go to the patrol car, and he swore at the officers. He said Hopkins had slurred speech, smelled of alcohol and could not walk a straight line.

Dedrick said he saw Hopkins strike DeJarnette in

By TOM MAUPIN
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

The summer of 1974 will soon be just a memory, but it will be a happy memory for the Sedalia Recreation Department. This summer the department's first year of operation saw the introduction of an organized program for children.

"As far as we're concerned, it was a success," recreation director Roscoe Righter said.

The eight-week program was held for five hours a day, five days a week in five parks. The average daily attendance for the program was 55 children. Righter said Liberty and Hubbard Parks had the biggest turn-out of children throughout the summer. Attendance did drop on occasion due to Bible schools, weather and family vacations, however.

The program was open to all Sedalia children from age six through 16, according to playground program director Bob Pledge.

They were kept busy with arts and crafts projects, sports and weekly tournaments. Each week a different theme was used to help guide the activities. Righter said park supervisors were given an outline of the entire program, but they had the freedom to select their activities.

Many of those events were taken from a playground program in Springfield. Righter said some of the borrowed ideas worked and others did not.

One idea that did not work out according to plan was a bicycle rodeo. The children enjoyed the idea, but the problem was the lack of bicycles. Righter said many children showed up without bicycles and had to borrow them.

"This was just something we hadn't thought about," he said.

A free swimming day had such a turn out that Wednesdays became swimming day for the program.

Righter wanted trips for the children at least once every two weeks. The lack of transportation halted that idea, however. "This year was a trial year," Righter said. His budget for the year allowed him $5,000 for the program but only $4,076 was used.

Next year he hopes to extend the program for the entire day and in the third year Righter would like to use public school property. "This would be ideal," he said for the children who don't live near a park and don't have the transportation to one. "If they don't live close to a park they can't get there," Righter said. The idea of using school property would also allow the recreation department to store equipment in a safe place. Righter said at the present the parks don't have proper storage space.

One of the main goals of the summer program was to cut down vandalism at the parks. Righter said the object is getting youngsters to feel the parks are theirs to enjoy and not destroy. Last year the Park Department had to spend $5,000 for repairs, he said.

One problem facing the new recreation department is public awareness. "It's going to take a few years to get people acquainted with the program," Righter said. He does think the summer program will grow next year thanks to the word of mouth method among children.

To make Sedalians aware of the total offering of the recreation department, pamphlets will be distributed shortly listing all the activities coming up.

"We've got to get the people educated to what there is for their recreational hours besides television," Righter said.

He admits turning on the tube is easier than getting out of the house and doing things, but he sees signs of hope. The recreation department has been able to form 16 volleyball teams for men and women in the year. There are also programs for the handicapped and senior citizens. There are arts and crafts programs scheduled for women, but Righter would like to have classes for men as well.

"A woodworking class would be great for the men if we had the facilities for it," he said.

But with these activities in operation and others planned, Righter said only 2,500 to 3,000 adults have taken part in the recreation programs. "We've still got a lot of people to reach yet," he said.

One of the fastest growing sports in America has been tennis. Righter said for the individual tennis can be an inexpensive sport, but for a city it can be very expensive. He said two tennis courts built last year cost $18,000 while now, two new courts would cost between $24,000 and $25,000.

Righter said the city cannot keep up with the tennis demand. The city's seven courts are used all the time. At Liberty Park the lights stay on until 11:30 p.m. and tennis fans are still playing, even though the park is supposed to close at 11 p.m.

Of the city's seven courts, Righter said, none of them are in top condition. Either the lighting is poor at some or the surfaces are bad at others. He said the courts are playable but a champion player would immediately note the poor conditions.

The recreation department was planning to build a tennis complex, but funds for that were cut from the budget. Other plans call for constructing a practice area near the present courts at Liberty. The department would also like to provide the public with handball courts, but again that is only a plan for the future.

To build the better tennis courts, provide recreation to the senior and handicapped citizens and expand the summer program takes money. And, Righter said, "we're not getting enough."

Hot line

Hot line answers questions, looks into complaints, solves problems and generally serves readers and protects their interests. Write Hot Line, The Sedalia Democrat-Capital, Seventh and Massachusetts, Sedalia, Mo. 65301, or call 826-1000 between 7 a.m. and 11 p.m. Hot Line will appear as often as necessary to serve our readers.

All calls and letters to Hot Line must include name, address and phone number of inquirers. Names will not be used but are needed should additional information be required to answer questions.

Q — Will you please give me the names of the doctors who are members of the Fellowship of American College of Surgeons. — E.S.

A — The FACS members in Sedalia are listed as : Dr. William R. Cole, MD; Dr. Robert L. Glass, MD; and Dr. John E. Lamy, MD.

Q — My aunt was recently in a hospital in Kansas City and had pneumonia and her heart stopped. They called a "code blue." In the process of getting her heart started her ribs were broken and one lung was damaged. I asked the doctor why the accident and he said it happens in nine out of 10 cases in older people. Is this true? — E.P.

A — Hot Line consulted a nurse trained in such emergency procedures, who said an older person can suffer broken ribs from a code blue procedure. She explained that heavy pressure must be applied to the heart to get it started again. This pressure is applied by pounding on the chest or strong massage. The bones of older persons are brittle and damages to a lung could occur from a broken rib.

Q — My problem is I bought my Kirby vacuum cleaner from a dealer out of Warrensburg a year ago. I repeatedly called and could not get service. After trips there the dealer still could not fix it so it would run. After that he promised to bring me a new one to replace it. He finally brought me two rebuilt ones I would not accept. I'm still not fully convinced I have a new one. — L.M.

A — Kirby's factory distributer in Jefferson City, Keith Peterson, was contacted on this matter. Peterson said dissatisfied customers should call him collect at (314) 635-4614. He said he has made good on other complaints, even to the extent of losing money on the deal.

Q — Very late on the night of either July 12 or July 13 a parked car parked at the curb in front of the New Hope Baptist Church was struck by a moving vehicle with such force that both cars stopped beyond the sidewalk in the church parking lot. Further, they were so wedged together that it was necessary to wrench them apart with a tow truck before they could be towed away. This accident attracted a large crowd in spite of the late hour. The driver and the passenger of the moving car were placed in the police car, while another officer appeared to be making an intensive search of the area around the two cars. I never found a report of this accident in the paper, nor did hear a report on the local radio. What were the circumstances of the accident?

A — In Sunday's Hot Line the wrong police report was used as the basis for a reply to this question. After rechecking with the police department, the accident in question happened about 11:39 p.m. Saturday, July 13. According to the police report, Elmer Wieschmeier, 2803 Meadowood Dr., was driving east on East 16th. His car collided with the parked car of Joseph Chalfant, Route 2. Wieschmeier was tested for drinking and was charged with driving while intoxicated. No one was injured in the accident and for that reason it was not reported.

Q — I received a form from a friend for $10 worth of free product samples at a cost to me of $2.50. The friend received the same offer through the mail with about four extra envelopes addressed to the company. The letter she received asked her to pass out the extra envelopes to friends or relatives.

I sent my check to CD Center, Marcus Industrial Park, P.O. Box 5000, Smithtown, N.Y., on Feb. 1. The offer stated that to be eligible, the check should be post-marked by Feb. 3.

The deal included a consumer product evaluation which I filled out and sent in with the check. So far, I have received no free samples, but my cancelled check has been returned from the bank.

I have written to the company twice and complained but have received neither reply, nor samples, nor refund of my money. — G.A.

A — Directory assistance in Smithton was contacted for the phone number of CD Center, but no listing could be found for the company.

The Better Business Bureau in Kansas City reports CD Center has filed for bankruptcy. It said other complaints of this nature have come to its attention.

Q — The street has been repaved between Harrison and Missouri on 10th, but there are high ridges where the new pavement ends. Will these be smothed out by the city? — L.Y.

A — City Engineer Robert Cunningham informed Hot Line that the ridges have not been smoothed out because construction and repair work at the intersection in the vicinity you mentioned is not complete. As soon as the intersection work is completed next month, the street ridges will be smoothed out, he said.

Bond blamed for no action on usuary law

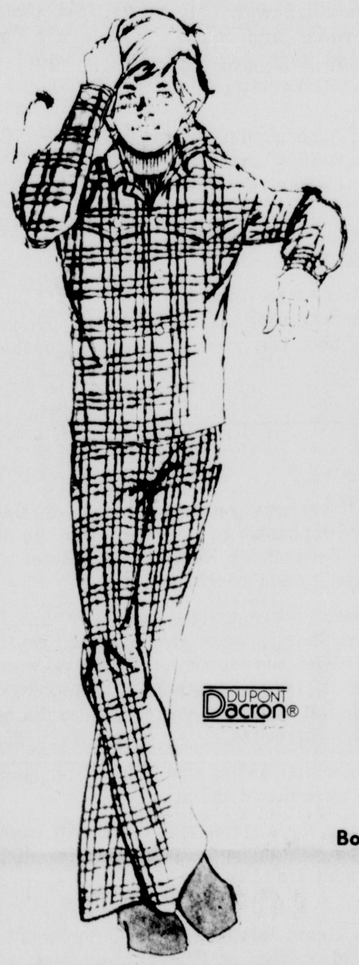

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond has been accused of letting politics influence his inaction dealing with the state's controversial usuary law.

"I am told his inaction is simply for political reasons," a realty company official said "If he continues to sit behind his desk there are going to be a lot of bankrupt builders and banks and savings and loans firms are not going to have anything left to loan," Mel Thomas warned.

Thomas' testimony during a hearing held by the state's Department of Consumer Affairs cooroborated that of most persons attacking the law limiting interest rates to 8 per cent.

Ollie W. Langhorst, executive secretary-treasurer of the Carpenters District Council, said employment in the union is down 30 per cent and urged that Bond call a special session of the legislature to boost the interest limit to 10 per cent.

DEATH NOTICES

Mrs. Virginia Ruth Gamber

Mrs. Virginia Ruth Gamber, 61, 718 East Fourth, died at Bothwell Hospital at 4:15 a.m. Saturday. She had been in failing health for several months.

She was born at Sedalia on Oct. 1, 1912, daughter of the late Albert B. and Etta Ruth Stubblefield Hurt. With the exception of a few years that she lived in Kansas City, she lived all of her life in Sedalia.

She was married at Sedalia, July 13, 1929, to Alvin W. Gamber, who survives of the home.

Mrs. Gamber was a member of the Calvary Temple.

She is also survived by one daughter, Mrs. Wayne (Ada) Butterwick, Route 1; three sons, Warren Gamber, Raytown; Dean Gamber, Albuquerque, N.M.; Gene Gamber, Raytown; one sister, Mrs. Gene (Goldie) Campbell, 700½ South Ohio; one brother, Albert J. Hurt, 2728 South Ohio; 10 grandchildren and one great-grandson.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Monday at the Ewing Funeral Home with the Rev. J.D. Sherman, pastor of the Calvary Temple, officiating.

Pallbearers will be Maurice Kelley, Bud McCown, Carl Vannoy, Bill Hieronymus, Ernest Schupp and Ed Schultz.

Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Thornton E. Wear

He was born Feb. 9, 1888, at Otterville, son of the late George W. and Harriet Barlett Wear. On Dec. 23, 1911, he married Urma Bane, who survives of the home.

Mr. Wear spent his entire life in the Otterville community. He was a retired farmer and substitute mail carrier. He was a member of the Otterville Presbyterian Church.

He is also survived by three sons, Raymond Wear, Enid, Okla.; James Wear, Otterville; T.E. Wear Jr., Camanche, Iowa; a daughter, Mrs. Clark (Maxine) Fry, Otterville; five grandchildren and one great-grandson.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday at the church with the Rev. John Treece officiating.

Burial will be in IOOF Cemetery here.

Leon C. Verheye

Leon C. Verheye, 70, 2707 Southwest Blvd., died at 11:50 p.m. Friday at Bothwell Hospital.

He was born Sept. 27, 1903, in Belgium, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alolph Verheye. On Jan. 3, 1928, in Kansas City, he married Ruth M. Chmelir who survives of the home.

Mr. Verheye lived in Sedalia about a year after moving here from Kansas City where he was a landscape gardener.

He was a member of Sacred Heart Catholic Church and the Holy Name Society.

Funeral services will be held at 9 a.m. Monday at the church, with the Rev. Vincent Hoying officiating.

Burial will be in St. Peter and Paul Cemetery, Cole Camp.

The rosary will be recited at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at McLaughlin Funeral Chapel.

Miss Elizabeth A. Wiley

Miss Elizabeth A. Wiley, 75, 3132 West 10th, died at 7 a.m. Saturday at Bothwell Hospital.

She was born July 15, 1899, in Sedalia, daughter of the late Robert E. and Susan Murray Wiley.

Miss Wiley taught school in Jefferson City. She was a historian for the Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo., and later served as a historian in Wiesbaden, Germany. She returned to Sedalia to live about a year ago.

Survivors include one brother, William M. Wiley, Rolla; and one niece, Mrs. Andrew Lane, Newton, Mass.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday at McLaughlin Funeral Chapel with Dr. Roger Williams officiating.

Pallbearers will be S.W. McClure, Gordon Callis, Jack Fowler and Marvin Welch.

Burial will be in Crown Hill Cemetery.

Earl L. Saunders

He was born in Sedalia, Nov. 6, 1917 son of the late Jesse and Lena Mae Bouldin Saunders. In 1945 he married Ann Kimberling, who survives, of the home.

He was educated in the Sedalia public school system and was a graduate of Westminister College, Fulton. He also graduated from the University of Missouri law school and practiced law in Festus. He was prosecuting attorney in Jefferson County, Mo., for a time.

He went to Washington, D.C., in 1957 to work with the regulatory section of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

He was a member of the First Christian Church in Sedalia.

Also surviving are a son, Bill, and a daughter, Locky Ann, both of Alexandria.

Funeral services and burial will be held Tuesday in Alexandria.

Herbert D. Bodenhamer

Herbert D. Bodenhamer, 57, 1621 East Ninth, died of cancer at 2:10 p.m. Saturday at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Columbia, after a six-year illness.

He was born on Nov. 25, 1916, in Houstonia, son of F.L. and Onie Green Bodenhamer. On Nov. 23, 1942, in Sedalia, he married Marie E. Gramlich who survives of the home.

He was a World War II veteran and served in the U.S. Navy for eight years.

Survivors also include his mother, Mrs. F.L. Bodenhamer, Smithton; one son, Fred Bodenhamer, Memphis, Tenn.; one daughter, Patsy Bodenhamer, Warrensburg; and one brother, Dr. Schell H. Bodenhamer, Columbia.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Monday at McLaughlin Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Jerry Moon officiating.

Burial will be in Smithton Cemetery.

The family will receive friends from 7 to 9 p.m. Sunday at the funeral home.

She was born in Sedalia, Dec. 28, 1902, daughter of the late Tom and Susanna Cramer.

She received her education in the Sedalia school system. She was a member of the Lutheran Church in Sacramento.

Three local MD activities are scheduled

The Mid-Mizzou chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association will try to exceed last year's total of $9,400 in three fund-raising projects this weekend.

A "Car-A-Thon" will be held between noon and 6 p.m. Monday at the Thompson Hills Shopping Center. Three musical groups, Gary Smith and the Sundowners, Jim Chapman and the Missouri Travelers and Johnny Nace and the Midnighters will perform at the shopping center. The Sedalia fire and police departments also will display equipment from 2 to 4 p.m.

Youngsters will be asking for donations at the shopping center and at other locations in the city. The youth who deposits the most money into a special fish bowl will receive a new 10-speed bicycle, donated by Cecil's Bicycle Shop. Last year about $1,600 was raised at the "Car-A-Thon."

The national muscular dystrophy telethon will be seen between 10:30 p.m. Sunday and 5:30 p.m. Monday on KMBC-TV, Channel 9 Kansas City, and KOMU-TV, Channel 8 Columbia.

Pledges can be made to the local chapter by calling 826-0872 or 826-0818. Phones will be manned by Sedalia Jaycees and Jaycee Wives. Last year the Mid-Mizzou chapter, which includes Pettis, Benton and Saline Counties, raised $6,300 through telethon donations.

A "Skate-A-Thon" to kick off the Labor Day fund-raising activities was held Saturday at the D & B Skate Center, 3600 South Grand. About $1,500 was raised in last year's "Skate-A-Thon."

Many local businesses are contributing to the Muscular Dystrophy Association through special offers to customers or on a sales percentage basis.

A mothers' march for muscular dystrophy netted about $2,000 this spring.

R. L. Settles, chairman of the pledge committee, said the local chapter hopes to raise $10,000 to $12,000 this weekend.

Engineer has plan for Stockton Dam

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Army's district engineer has detailed a new plan he and his staff are considering for curing the messy, man-made flooding below Stockton Dam in southwest Missouri.

A letter to 68 property owners whose land is involved is at variance on several poins with the word which Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo, gave them after he took a boat ride on the swollen Sac River last Monday.

Eagleton drew great applause when he quoted the Army Engineers as saying a proposal to buy 3,700 acres along the 16 miles of river between Stockton and Caplinger Mills, Mo., was "totally abandoned, irrevocably dead."

Col William R. Needham, district engineer at Kansas City, said in his new letter that he has high hopes forethe new attack which is now being studied. But if it turns out to be impractical, he said, he may have to go back to his recommendation that the government buy the 3,700 acres.

Referring to a meeting which his staff held with the executive committee of the Sac River Valley Preservation Association at Stockton on Aug. 22, four days before the Eagleton boat trip, Needham said:

"There was a consensus that we may well be on the track toward a compromise. I am hopeful that a compromise solution can be reached. That will require the continued recent cooperation between us that has been demonstrated by the committee."

The engineers have acknowledged they badly miscalculated when they designed the dam, and the Sac cannot begin to handle the water which would spew out at around 12,000 cubic feet per second if the power turbine were generating its nominal capacity of 45,200 kilowatts of electricity.

Eagleton told the basket-dinner crowd of about 150 people on Monday that the engineers had agreed to keep the water down to about 5,000 cubic feet, where it has been since June of 1973.

Col. Needham's new letter shows the compromise goal is a flow ranging around 7,000 cubic feet and a power output of 40,000 kilowatts.

At only 5,000 cubic feet, the turbine jitters along and emits an uneven surge of around 30,000 kilowatts. The Southwestern Power Administration, which gets the electricity, has been demanding the 52,000 kilowatts which the turbine can actually produce.

At only 5,000 cubic feet, the gushing water continues to cut deeply into the banks of the Sac, toppling big trees into the river after washing the earth from around their roots, and undermining the edges of hay, corn, soybean and sorghum grain fields.

A new fence built 12 feet from the bank two years ago on Mrs. Joe Howard's property now hangs out in the air over the river in several spots. Trees, underbrush and debris have filled up the fishing holes.

The plan which the engineers hope will permit a flow off up to 7,000 cubic feet for six hours a day without further damage to the river valley involves up to four "cuts" where the meandering river makes big bends that go almost full circle.

"It will be some time before we are able to tell whether cutoffs will be of any help," Needham wrote.

"It also appears that some swales and low land could be filled with earth in order to keep the water from overflowing these areas."

In order to make the cuts and fill the swales, Needham said, it would be necessary to get flowage easements of up to about 1,000 acres.

This would leave the farmer owning his land, paying taxes on it and taking his chances of getting a crop in an out between the times it is necessary to empty flood water from the 25,000-acre lake.

On Monday, Eagleton described the 5,000 cubic foot flow, the cuts and 900 acres in flowage easements as alternatives; and he said the 900 acres in easements were a last resort which the engineers had told him they didn't expect to have to resort to.

Col. Needham's letter made no mention of ever being satisfied with only 5,000 cubic feet of water and 30,000 kilowatts of power, and it showed the cuts and the flowage easements are indivisible.

"We do not know if such a plan will work," he said. "The studies would involve some test releases late this year and possibly the installation of some observation devices to determine groundwater elevations."

Eagleton promised to go over it again with the engineers when he returned to Washington after the Labor Day recess.

Roving sniper kills three, injures six

INDIO, Calif. (AP) — A sniper terrorized motorists on a lonely stretch of desert for nearly six hours before dawn Saturday, killing three persons, injuring six others and riddling several autos with bullets.

A car matching the description provided by witnesses was pulled over about 25 miles west of Blythe, a city on the California-Arizona border, and the driver was arrested without a struggle, Riverside County Undersheriff Robert Presley said.

Presley identified the man as Richard Harold Hicks, 34, of Tucson, Ariz. He was booked for investigation of murder and assault with intent to commit murder.

Sheriff's Capt. Cois Byrd said a .22-caliber sawed-off rifle and some expended cartridges were found in Hicks' car.

admissions were sold. It was not disclosed how many were sold.

Shaw said it became impossible to keep those who did not have tickets out of the Fairgrounds. Holes were cut in fences, and cars and trucks were driven through, he said.

The other co-chairman of the committee, Sen. Ike Skelton, D-Lexington, asked Shaw about a news release issued by the promoters on April 19 which said security at the festival would be under the direction of Pettis County Sheriff Emmett W. Fairfax. Fairfax testified at an earlier session that he did not direct security and had not agreed to.

Shaw said it was his understanding that Music Productions Inc. had a contingency agreement with Fairfax.

"But the news release flatly states that the sheriff would supervise security," Sen. Skelton said. "It says nothing about any contingency agreement. Isn't that true?"

"Yes," Shaw said.

Wells Fargo Security Guard Service provided 300 guards for the music festival; and another of Friday's witnesses was Ronald P. Mealey, attorney for Baker Industries, Inc., parent company of Wells Fargo.

Mealey said there was open, prevalent, rampant use of drugs at the Fairgrounds and the Wells Fargo guards spent a lot of their time helping medical people treat the victims of drug overdoses.

"That became one of our principal duties," Mealey said.

He said the 300 guards employed by Wells Fargo worked 12-hour shifts. An earlier witness for Wells Fargo testified the size of the crowd called for 900 guards instead of 300.

Officers of Music Productions Inc. said the company grossed $948,000 on tickets and $32,000 on concessions. Expenses were listed at $430,000.

Scheduled to appear at the Wednesday meeting are Hugh Sprague, director of communications for Gov. Chrostopher S. Bond.; James B. Boillot, state director of agriculture; Wendell Smith, secretary of the State Fair; and William Holden, a lawyer for the State Department of Agriculture when the lease on the Fairgrounds was drawn up and signed in April.

Hung jury

the car after hearing a scream. He said he then saw DeJarnette get on top of Hopkins to try to subdue him, and saw DeJarnette strike Hopkins.

Cassing asked Dedrick if DeJarnette was angry. Dedrick said DeJarnette "was upset." Dedrick also said foul language was used by both Hopkins and DeJarnette during the arrest.

Dedrick, who had been on the force less than two months at the time of the incident, denied doing anything other than following DeJarnette's orders and witnessing the breathilizer test. He also denied seeing any choke marks on Hopkins' neck and said he never heard DeJarnette say "he would put bumps on his (Hopkins) head," as Hopkins charged.

Lee said he was driving down Third Street when he saw Dedrick try to get his handcuffs out. He said he did not see any blows struck. Ditsfeld, also driving on Third Street, said he heard words being exchanged and saw DeJarnette on top of Hopkins trying to put handcuffs on the defendant.

Hopkins testified that between 2 and 8 p.m. on May 25 he had drunk a total of four beers at four Sedalia bars. He told the jury that he had lived in Sedalia 30 years and was a Sedalia policeman in 1955. He said he was here to visit his mother.

Hopkins said DeJarnette told him, "You've been drinking, haven't you." After he got into the patrol car, DeJarnette told him he was under arrest and an argument ensued, the defendant said.

Under cross examination, Hopkins said he "Never intentionally hit or kicked DeJarnette, except maybe when he sprayed me with mace." He earlier said that he was choked by someone he thought to be Dedrick.

Hopkins also said that DeJarnette, Dedrick, Lee and Ditzfeld all had committed perjury and lied. He disputed the breathilizer test, saying DeJarnette "could have written any number down."

First Ward Councilman Allen Hawkins and Jerry Collins were called by Cassing as character witnesses.

In his closing argument, Cassing said his client obeyed the officers' orders and said a man could not be intoxicated after only four beers. Cassing also pointed out discrepencies in city witnesses' testimony concerning the signing of the ticket and where the fight occurred in the patrol car.

Fritz said the minor discrepancies in the case were not as important as the attempt by the defense to put the officers and the Sedalia police department on trial.

"They (the defense) are saying the police don't know how to handle a drunk," Fritz said.

The jurors, selected from 21 chosen by Miller, were: J.R. Smetana, 1108 East 10th; Bill Gatewood, 601 North Lamine; Jerry L. Jones, 1111 West Third; Charlie Wilson, Broadway Arms Apartments; Mrs. Ewing Gibson, 1109 Herold; Mrs. Ed McMullin, 1705 South Montgomery; Mrs. Floyd Lutjin, 508 East Fifth; Mrs. Faye Croy, 1709 East Seventh; Mrs. Ellis Garrett, 1200 Liberty Park Blvd.; Walter Jessee, 1612 East Fourth; Norman Capps, 1501 West Fourth; and John McMurdo, 2313 East 16th.

Question
My wife and I are retired. Thanks to Medicare we have eliminated one major concern in our lives, but we still have to plan for that one which involves your services. What are your suggestions?
Answer
Perhaps without realizing it, you are better prepared than you think. Your bank account, real estate, automobile and securities are probably in joint tenancy, and contingently covered by a will.. Any insurance in either of your names is payable to a named beneficiary. You may be covered by a Social Security annuity, Railroad Retirement benefit, or Civil Service pension, and if you are, certain benefits in these plans accrue automatically to the survivors.
Talking things over with us in advance of need neither brings death closer nor delays it, but it most certainly does make everything easier for those left behind. There is no obligation or expense in discussing all the aspects of a funeral service with us. We have been doing this for 95 years! Our suggestion is quite simple . . . please telephone us . . . we can talk with you without being commercial or morbid.

Meany: Time is ripe for new depression

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany says "there is every indication" that the United States is heading into a depression, possibly worse than in the 1930s, with business failures and widespread unemployment.

"I thought we had eliminated really the major causes of depression in this country during the Roosevelt days ... but still, in spite of that, I can see a depression coming unless there is a quick turnaround," said organized labor's chief spokesman.

Although "delighted and relieved" by the change at the White House, Meany said he doesn't think President Ford will be able to work economic miracles.

In a pre-Labor Day interview, he said the nation's economic problems are so widespread that the only way to control prices is through a vast government bureaucracy, as during World War II.

But he added: "I just can't see President Ford doing that any more than Nixon would do it."

Also, Meany said he is discouraged that the same economic experts who advised Nixon are now advising Ford. "The same people are there making the policies," he said.

The leader of the 13.5-million-member labor federation said he was hopeful that Ford would come away from the upcoming economic summit conference with a long-range program of dealing with inflation that would lower interest rates, pump money into social programs, finance housing construction and allocate government funds for home mortgages.

"We are suffering now from a tremendous lack of confidence" and this, he suggested, would help restore confidence.

The 80-year-old Meany talked to a small group of reporters who specialize in labor coverage for two hours on a broad range of subjects. His comments were for release Sunday.

Among other things, he said:

—Former President Richard M. Nixon, by resigning from office, has suffered enough punishment. "I think most of the people would buy that" if President Ford decided to pardon Nixon.

—He regards a Ford-Rockefeller ticket "very difficult to beat in 1976" if inflation is brought under control or prevented from becoming "a real catastrophoe."

—The AFL-CIO has abandoned its campaign for a "veto-proof Congress" in the fall elections as a result of Nixon's resignation. "We have had no experience with Ford on whether he will take a similar line on social programs — people programs — that he will veto them all on the grounds that they are inflationary" as he said Nixon did.

—Secretary of Labor Peter Brennan has no rapport with the labor movement, but if Ford wants him to stay in the Cabinet, "that's all right with us." It's "as if the job was vacant."

—The labor movement has more clout today because of its political organization, a "machine that reaches into the precincts of every industrial state in this country."

In other Labor Day statements, Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons called for a contingency plan of economic controls to freeze all business transactions for at least 30 days; afterward the Cost of Living Council would roll back exorbitant price increases.

Jerry Wurf, president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, said "something more than summits and task forces, rhetoric and cosmetics" is needed to avert what he called the most critical economic crisis since the 1929 stock market crash.

President I. W. Abel of the United Steelworkers urged President Ford to loosen credit, close tax loopholes for business and provide expanded public works and job programs to overcome inflation.

Labor Secretary Brennan called for restraint and sacrifice to control inflation, but added that "we also must make sure that the working men and women of this country do not have to carry more than their fair share of the load in this effort."

The National Right to Work Committee used the holiday to urge Ford to help "return Labor Day to the workingman" by pushing for legislation that would outlaw compulsory union membership.

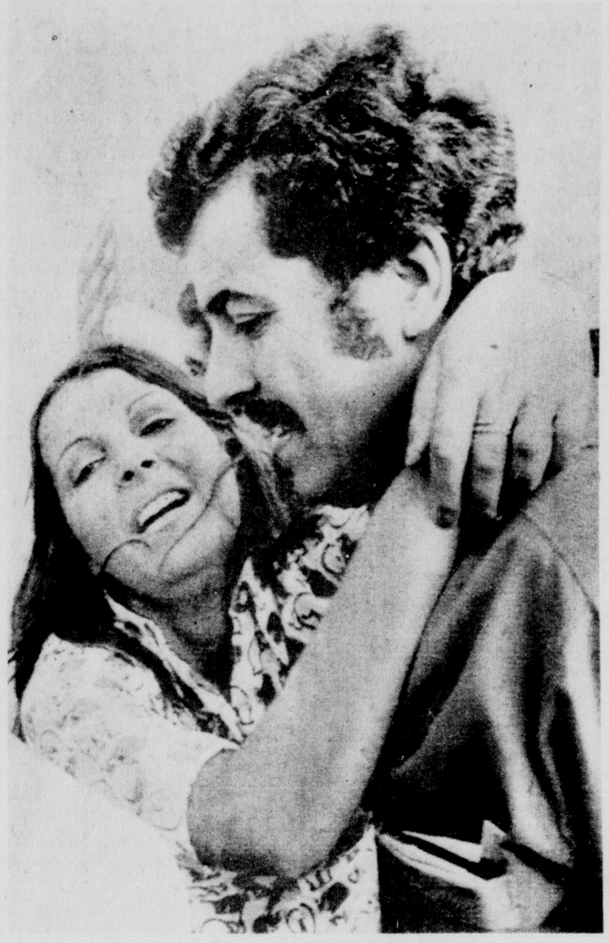

Meany, commenting on the economy, said "there is a long-range job to be done, and I'm just hopeful that Ford will be able to do something. But there has got to be new ideas. There has got to be innovative ideas. There has got to be new directions. We can't continue going down the hill."

The labor chieftain rejected Treasury Secretary William E. Simon's suggestion for a return to wage-price guidelines, saying that would be as bad as wage controls, which Ford already has ruled out.

Employers, he said, would enforce wage guidelines, but there would be no enforcement on prices.

Meany, who a year ago predicted a recession at this time, forecast that if a depression hit it would be worse than in the 1930s.

"We have more people to take care of and the percentage of people out of work now is going up, and if we ever get to the point where the consumer purchasing power reaches a lowest ebb—the low ebb it reached in the thirties—then we are in real trouble."

Parochial schools get year's leeway

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — A St. Louis County circuit judge has provided Missouri's nonpublic schoolchildren what amounts to a year's leeway in the use of public school textbooks.

Judge Orville W. Richardson, in ruling Friday on a Missouri Supreme Court decision, said nonpublic schools must return the books by June 30, 1975 unless they are purchased by Feb. 1.

The decision, he said, was influenced by the fact that many textbooks for school years already under way have been delivered.

Dairymen to demand safeguards

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The president of the Associated Milk Producers, Inc. (AMPI) has urged farmer-members of the dairy cooperative to "demand built-in safeguards" when they vote on resolutions.

John Butterbrodt, Burnett, Wis., was referring to safeguards against making illegal corporate contributions to political campaigns. The company was fined $35,000 Aug. 1 for making such a contribution.

Delegates will consider a report to evaluating the possibility of additional lawsuits stemming from actions by past officers of AMPI.

The report is expected to recommend new procedures to insure that no funds be spent without full knowledge of the board of directors.

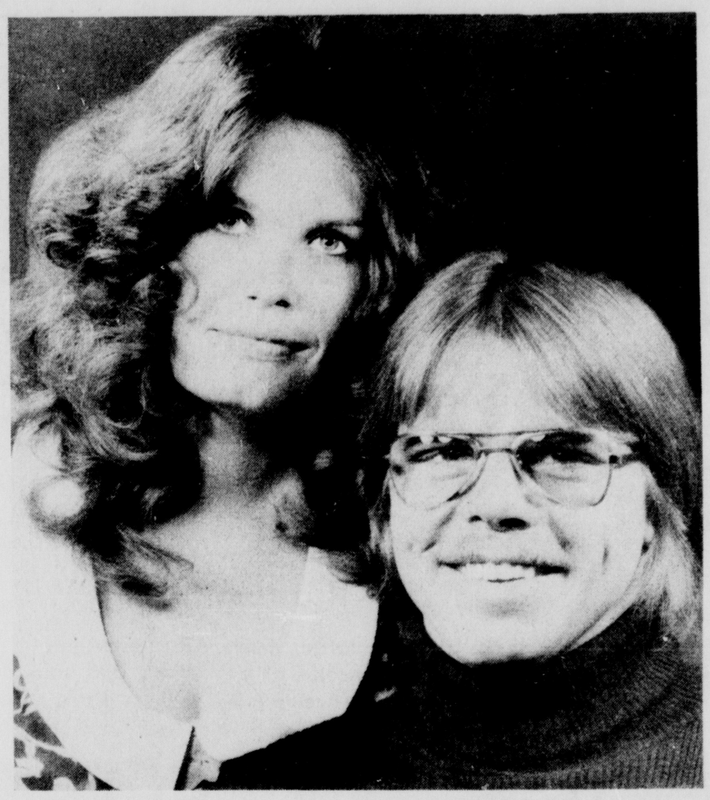

Friday night, Butterbrodt had blamed the political notoriety on "the errors of farmer management" and defended AMPI from criticism by other farm groups for its political activity.

However, the Wisconsin dairy farmer said the members are prepared to contribute $1.5 million to political campaigns this year.

Butterbrodt said the contributions will be used to combat dairy imports in the wake of what he called "the most hostile year the dairy industry has seen."

AMPI had total sales of $1.4 billion for the year ending June 30. It compares with $1.1 billion in 1973 and 1972.

The cooperative paid $1.32 billion to producers. Or, about $8.08 per hundredweight value of milk deliveries. That compares with $6.70 per hundredweight in 1973.

Thousands are fleeing from Iraq

PAVEH, Iran (AP) — The newest refugees in the Middle East are the Kurds, fleeing by the thousands into western Iran to escape what some call a systematic Iraqi campaign to eradicate the Kurdish minority.

About 80,000 Kurds already live in a dozen squalid camps along the central Iraqi-Iranian frontier. Hundreds more slip across the border every day, according to relief officials.

"The Iraqi soldiers can't win against our guerrillas, so they are destroying the Kurdish civilians," said an elderly Kurd at the refugee camp near Paveh.

The 70-acre tent complex on the slopes of Mt. Sariask holds 13,000 refugees, mostly children, old people and women. There are few men of fighting age, and the women say their men stayed behind to battle Iraqi soldiers and jets.

Heavy fighting has been reported between the Iraqi military and the Kurdish Pesh Merga guerrillas since negotiations on an autonomous Kurdish state within Iraq broke down last March.

About 2 million of Iraq's 10 million people are Kurds, a militant ethnic group concentrated in northern Iraq.

Lt. Hassan Ali, a guerrilla commander, said he was wounded but escaped with three other guerrillas after an Iraqi division captured his village. He vowed to return to fight.

Almost all those in the camp, however, are civilians who made it to the border by foot or on donkeys. Some fled in carts or battered old cars. One group told how they fled their homes in northeastern Iraq at night to escape Iraqi air attacks.

They said they trekked 10 hours in darkness over jagged granite mountains to sanctuary in Iran, leaving behind almost everything they own. Scores of their companions were caught by Iraqi army patrols and killed, they said, while others died of exposure in the mountains or drowned trying to cross fast flowing rivers.

Many who made it have smashed bones and scorched flesh. They now face new problems typical to refugees, including dysentery, exhaustion, exposure and the possibility of cholera.

"The Red Lion and Sun (Iran's Red Cross) is trying to keep the camp as clean as possible. They've given us chlorinated latrines, water and fresh food every day," said Dr. Umbaid Mougarak, the camp's chief medical officer and a Kurdish refugee.

But Mougarak said conditions will deteriorate severely with the coming of winter. "The snows fall in November, and already at night the temperature drops to almost freezing," he said.

Relief officials said the Iranian government was building winter housing for 20,000 refugees.

Mind your money

No loss in nutrition evident

By PETER WEAVER

Q — A clerk at a health food store told me instant powdered milk did not have the nutritional value of health food powdered milk that has to be mixed in a blender. Is this true? The health food milk is more expensive. — Ms. B.D., Los Angeles, Calif.

A — All powdered milk, when reconstituted with water, has essentially the same nutritional value. Your best bet is to buy local, supermarket brands that have the lowest price. That way you'll be getting one of the best nutrition bargains available. Powdered milk is high in protein and does not have the calories or fat content of whole milk (which is good for dieters). It's one of the cheapest forms of top quality protein you can buy these days. Buying in bigger bulk packages gives you an even better unit price.

Q — I understand some credit card companies now give you the option of paying your bill with cash and getting a discount. Do you know which cards do this? — Mrs. L.P., Kansas City, Mo.

A — In the settlement of a suit brought by Consumers Union against American Express, that company modified its contracts with merchants and restaurants to permit discounts for cash. Master Charge has been sued by a merchant to allow cash discounts but the case has not been settled as yet. Consumers Union is currently negotiating with other major credit card companies to allow cash discounts. Meanwhile, before paying with a credit card, ask each merchant or restaurant if you can get a discount by paying cash. Some will give you discounts ranging between three and six per cent.

Q — To save money, I've been buying materials to make some of our clothing. My daughter helps. Recently, some material had flaws in it even though it was sold as top quality. Wasn't this material misbranded? — Mrs. P. McH., Boston, Mass.

A — Government specifications allow five flaws in every 50 yards of goods with no restriction on the size of the flaw. Inspection done at plants isn't perfect. If you bought the material at a reputable store, take it back. Most will make adjustments.

If you bought the material at a remnant or discount shop, you probably can't get your money back. You can get excellent buys in these cut-rate stores but you have to be careful in selection of bolt material.

If it's a soiled crease, it may come out in the wash. Silks and woolens usually are folded with the right side inside, according to University of Delaware clothing and textile specialists. These specialists also say you can touch up nonwashable material with spot remover. Many flaws can be worked around but you should make this decision at the store not trust to luck when you get home and start cutting.

Q — We own a lot in the mountains and would like to build our own log cabin. Do you know where we could get plans for a log cabin? We could use our own timber. — J.R.S., Springdale, Pa.

A — Log cabin plans aren't in great demand these days but I did find one place that might solve your problem. Send $1 to: Cooperative Extension Service, College, Alaska 99701. Ask for pamphlet P-50A, "Building a Log Cabin."

Guards' union says hiring ex-convicts at prisons threatens security

Rehabilitation plus

Ruben Jimenez, shown talking to two inmates at the State Correctional Camp in Portland, Conn., is a correctional officer with a difference. He's an ex-convict himself, and he's one of about 25 former inmates who have managed to make the step from behind bars directly into positions of authority as guards and counselors in Connecticut jails and prisons. (AP)

By DAN HALL
Associated Press Writer

HARTFORD CONN. (AP) — Ruben Jimenez. Age: 36. Background: heroin addict in Spanish Harlem at 14; convicted "27 or 28 times;" imprisoned 12 years. Occupation: correctional officer.

A former addict with a 16-year history of heroin use interrupted only by prison terms, he broke the habit after his last arrest. Only a few months later, at the maximum-security prison in Somers, he founded the state prison system's first autonomous drug rehabilitation center.

Since 1969, about 25 former inmates have followed similar paths to Correction department jobs in what Commissioner John R. Manson calls a unique step from behind bars directly into positions of authority.

Only two have lost their jobs. Jiminez says one was fired because his job performance worsened consistently. The other suddenly stopped reporting to work.

Another two dozen of the 1,000 department employes have conviction records but came from other jobs.

The list of ex-cons on prison and jail staffs includes a deputy warden, correctional officers and counselors to addicts, inmates and parolees. Among them are:

—Dennis Guay, a computer programmer with a college degree who beat his wife's sister to death with a bowling pin in 1963. His life sentence was commuted to eight years after he set up two educational programs for fellow inmates. Now he's a deputy jail warden.

—Warren Kimbro, a former Black Panther lieutenant charged in 1969, along with National Chairman Bobby G. Seale, with murder in the death of a Panther underling. Kimbro admitted firing the first of several shots into the victim. Seale denied complicity in the crime and his trial ended in a hung jury. Kimbro went on to create several inmate programs and now runs a halfway house for former addicts.

—Joseph Falso, also a heroin addict with a 12-year prison record. He learned institutional cooking while in the Somers prison, and with the help of his prison teacher won a job as food supervisor and counselor at a drug-rehabilitation center.

The hiring of ex-cons coincided with the opening of new educational and drug programs in the department, many of them shaped by inmates themselves.

"We had so few dollars we were forced to spread the budget as well as we could for staff, then beat the bushes for inmates," Manson recalled. First the inmates worked as volunteers, then they became paid employes.

"He hasn't just served time, but he's been part of the (rehabilitation) service," he said. "I don't think we've ever hired an ex-con just because he was an ex-con."

One result of the program, however, was that both inmates and employers saw proof that criminals "can make it," he added.

Both Manson and the ex-cons working for him agree a background in crime and imprisonment are of little if any benefit to former inmates dealing with other criminals. One exception is the ability of former addicts to help others shake the habit.

Jiminez, a dynamic, dedicated and disarming man, shows how a toughened criminal can make the conversion, Manson said.

Born into a Spanish-speaking ghetto on New York's West Side, where heroin was a household word, the young addict was caught during a burglary at age 16 and imprisoned at Riker's Island for three years.

Jimenez said the term did little for him except to keep him temporarily off heroin. He later was arrested 32 times, all for nonviolent crimes to obtain more narcotics.

His marriage was a failure, ending in separation six years ago, he said.

Following his last conviction, he and other addicts in the sprawling Somers Prison were allowed to set up inmate-run Empathy House inside the walls.

In 1972, he helped open the department's minimum-security drug center on an isolated, wooded hilltop in Portland.

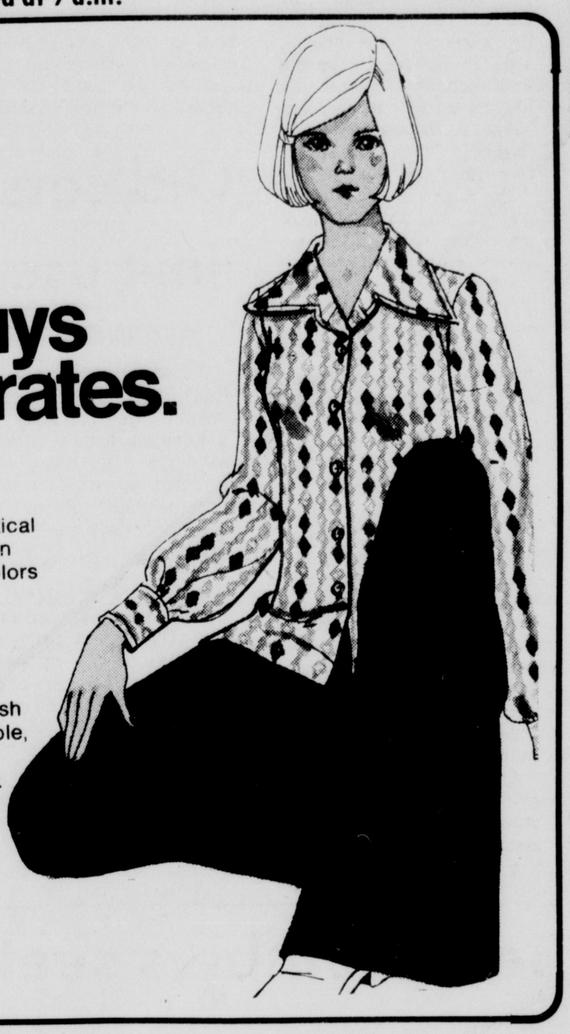

Jimenez now lives about 25 minutes away in Old Saybrook. This year he was promoted to the $9,000-a-year job of correctional officer, the classification that includes guards at maximum security centers.

A frequent adviser to the commissioner, Jimenez supported a decision six months ago to require former addicts working as state counselors on the street, where drugs are easily obtained, to submit to a periodic urine analysis to make sure they have not lapsed into their old habit.

Michael Ferrucci Jr., the leader of one union which represents guards said: "we don't think former inmates should be placed in positions of security like police departments and correctional centers."

Look, Ma, no hands...

The Phoenix Nest
Edited by Martin Levin

By DERECK WILLIAMSON

The trouble with digital clocks is that there's no big hand and little hand.

Modern electronics technology has produced wrist watches that display the hours, minutes, and seconds as a series of numbers on a screen. The watches have blank faces, but underneath, digital circuits "remember" what time it is. Press a knob, and red numbers appear. 12:49:21. Amazing. But I'm still not sure of the time.

Now they're advertising a digital television set. When you push a button the channel number appears on the corner of the screen. This is handy for people with memory problems. It's like going to the movies and having "Palace Theatre" flashed on the screen, so you remember where you are.

The big selling pitch for digital TV is a digital clock on the screen. One advertisement announces:

"When you change channels, the hours, minutes, and seconds flash on the screen in easy-to-read digital numbers. A recall button repeats the time and channel when you'd like!"

But who wants to know that it's 12:49:21? Who counts seconds in the living room? Clocking a foot-race, you'd use a stop-watch. You're not going to lug your digital telly down to the track.

Frankly, I don't give a hoot about the seconds. Now and then it's helpful to know the hour and minute. But I don't want the time announced in a number that sounds like a football signal.

Another failing of digital clocks is that they tell you what time it is right now, and that's all.

A traditional face-hands clock tells you more. It lets you know if you're early or late, and by how much. It's quarter of. It's twenty after. The train's late. The cake's not done yet. Missing in digital clocks is the important relationship between past and present, between present and future.

When the big hand is almost on the ten, and the little hand near the one, I know that one o'clock is sneaking up, and that I'd better get to bed or I'll have a rough time getting up tomorrow morning.

That same time in digits doesn't tell me it's ten before anything. It's 12:49:21, an abstract statistic. I'll stay up all night.

A hands-off policy is no good for clocks. I've got confidence in the familiar big hand and little hand. They even tell me the time when I first wake up.

Old cars can help limit use of gas

By WILL STANTON

Automotive engineers think they have all the answers, they can show you a dozen mechanical tricks to save gas. The mean well. But they haven't learned the first principle: it isn't the cars that waste gas, it's the drivers.

For one thing, an old car uses a lot less gas than a new one. This is only partly due to engineering advances. Mostly it's because people don't drive an old car so much.

People with a car that smells like Detroit enjoy running errands. They like to eat at drive ins, go to see friends. They will go to see friends they haven't seen in years.

People with an old car don't see what's wrong with public transportation. They call their nephew to see if they can ride with him. They decide to stay home and paint the porch.

Kids hate to have to ask for things, especially things like an old family car that doesn't have airconditioning or radio. I know kids who won't ride in a car without stereo. If your car doesn't have all the accessories, your teenager will probably work out other plans. If you do have a car radio, you don't have to take it out. Take out a tube!

If you want to save gasoline, don't study engines, study people.

Corrections officials pleased with program

SOMERS, Conn. (AP) — Connecticut corrections officials say they are pleased with the success thus far of a controversial program that uses electric shock treatment and psychological conditioning on men serving terms for molesting children.

Roger Wolfe, administrator of the program, says that in the last 18 months, 11 men who have undergone the treatment have been released from the state prison here. None have been rearrested for sexual offenses, he says.

And while Wolfe says it is "inevitable" that one of those involved will be rearrested, he hopes the program will be 70 to 80 per cent successful.

The treatment involves channeling the behavior of the convicts into socially accepted patterns. They undergo a three-stage treatment aimed at making them desire sex with women rather than children.

Civil libertarians critical of the program say inmates participate because they believe it will enhance their chances of parole. And the U.S. Bureau of Prisons has said it is discontinuing its behavior modification program.

State Correction Commissioner John R. Manson, however, says he is prepared to go to court to keep the Connecticut program and calls the federal decision "gutless." Manson says the alternative is to keep convicted child molesters locked up for longer periods since parole boards are reluctant to grant early parole to sex offenders.

Wolfe says that the officials running the program often are skeptical about the sincerity of those wishing to enter. But he says the motivation level of most inmates is high because "it's not nice to be a child molester. If you're a junkie you can find all sorts of peer support.... If you're a bank robber, you're admired."

The program uses just that motivation to change the inmate during the behavior modification program. It starts with aversion therapy, which uses the individual's phobia and couples it with an incompatible picture that makes that phobia repulsive to him.

During shock therapy, the inmate sees slides of nude children and women. He receives an electric shock to the groin area when he sees a slide of a child. No shock is associated with the pictures of women.

With the molester's preference for children eliminated, social conditioning begins by transferring the inmate's sexual desires to "normal channels." The inmate fantasizes normal sexual contact, and rewards himself with thoughts of something he finds pleasant, such as his boss giving him a raise.

Beachcombers seek shells

HONOLULU (AP) — A booming trade in jewelry made froom common seashells has brought beachcombers armed with shovels, kitchen strainers and makeshift window screen strainers to seek minifortunes on hitherto tranquil Hawaiian beaches.

Their quarry is the Puka shell, the disc end of tiny cone-shaped seashells. The shells are made into necklaces, bracelets, earrings and hatbands, but are used most often for singlestrand choker necklaces for both men and women that are the rage of the islands.

The necklaces are sold at roadside stands where the going price for chokers is from $18 to $25. Stores in the Honolulu area are charging between $35 and $50.

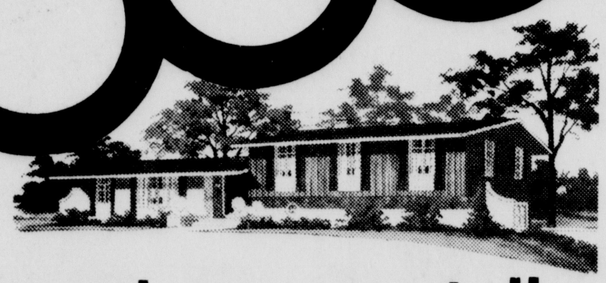

The seashell ends that make up the necklaces are eroded from the rest of the shell by sand and coral. They have a tiny hole in the middle, which give the shell its name — puka is the Hawaiian word for hole. About 150 shells are needed for a 15-inch choker.

The shells are found in greatest abundance at beaches on Oahu's north shore and upper leeward coast. Beachcombers sift through sand, coral, driftglass and other shells to find the tiny Puka shells.

"We got here at 5 a.m. and there were already others here," said another puka-hunter on a recent morning. "Weekends are worst, but there are big crowds even on weekdays."

Ford reaffirms his grain export stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has reaffirmed his opposition to limiting grain exports, even as the Agriculture Department was reporting a surge in corn buying by the Common Market nations.

"The President reaffirmed his previous position that he saw no need for export controls," Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said on Thursday after a meeting with Ford.

Meanwhile, an Agriculture Department spokesman reported that the nine-member Common Market has ordered nearly 368.5 million bushels of corn for the marketing year starting Oct. 1. A week ago, the total for the present year was only 204.8 million bushels.

However, a department spokesman termed the increase in corn buying merely speculative and predicted that much of it would not be shipped.

On Wednesday, Petrus Lardinois, the Common Market's agriculture commissioner, said the community's feed grain needs would be down 10 per cent in the year ahead and Richard J. Goodman of the Agriculture Department said even larger cutbacks were planned in imported feed grain.

Goodman said the Agriculture Department expects orders for U.S. corn from the Common Market to be trimmed about 30 per cent.

Lardinois said the Common Market was planning substantial cutbacks in livestock and poultry production and large quantities of domestically produced wheat would be diverted into feed use, displacing corn which otherwise might be imported from the United States.

Last week, Japan also indicated it would make a 10 per cent cutback in U.S. feed grain needs.

Butz said Ford agreed with him that the government should not own large stocks of grain at taxpayer expense and that whatever food reserves are maintained should be in the hands of farmers and private trade.

Drought requests reach 58

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Requests to be designated as a drought disaster county have been filed by 58 of Missouri's 114 counties and Missouri Department of Agriculture officials predict the total will reach 100.

Agriculture Director James Boillot has estimated 101 counties might qualify because of the July drought, and John Sanders, director of agriculture development for the department, said Thursday, "that won't be too far off."

He said the counties are spread throughout the state. Affected are corn, feed grains and pastures.

If federal officials approve the disaster declaration requests farmers in the counties can qualify for a 5 per cent loan. They must have suffered a 10 per cent loss in a year's production to qualify.

"Most of the corn is past the stage of being helped," Sanders said. "The recent rain might help corn that was planted late."

Federal agriculture officials have estimated that 20 per cent of the Missouri corn crop will be lost because of the July dry spell.

"I'd estimate it would be much more than that," Sanders said.

He said no reliable estimates are available on what the monetary loss might be.

Waiting room donation

Members of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce presented a check for $1,150 to Bothwell Hospital Administrator Don Feeback Friday to be applied for buying more furniture for the waiting room for the emergency room of the hospital's new addition. Plane crashes in field; three killed

MOUNDRIDGE, Kan. (AP) — The pilot and two passengers in a single engine plane were killed when their craft crashed in a farm field and burned shortly after takeoff from the Moundridge airport in a heavy fog.

Killed early Friday were Wayne Wollmann, 19, Moundridge, the pilot, James M. Yutzy, 18, Hannibal, Mo., and Jeffrey D. Kaufman, 19, Iowa City, Iowa. Wollman was a graduate of nearby Hesston Community College, and the other two were second-year students at the school.

The crash occurred about a mile northeast of the north Moundridge interchange on Interstate 35 about 15 miles after the plane took off and about two miles from the airport.

Agents from the National Transportation Safety Board and the Federal Aviation Administration were investigating the cause of the crash.

Princess and husband to compete

LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne and her husband, Capt. Mark Phillips, have been selected to compete for Britain in the world three-day equestrian event next month.

The event begins Sept. 12 at Burghley in eastern England.

The daughter of Queen Elizabeth II will ride Goodwill as an indvidual entry for the Raleigh Trophy while her husband competes with the British team on the queen's horse Columbus, it was announced on Thursday.

I'm Elwood Mather at the Third and I want to be your banker!

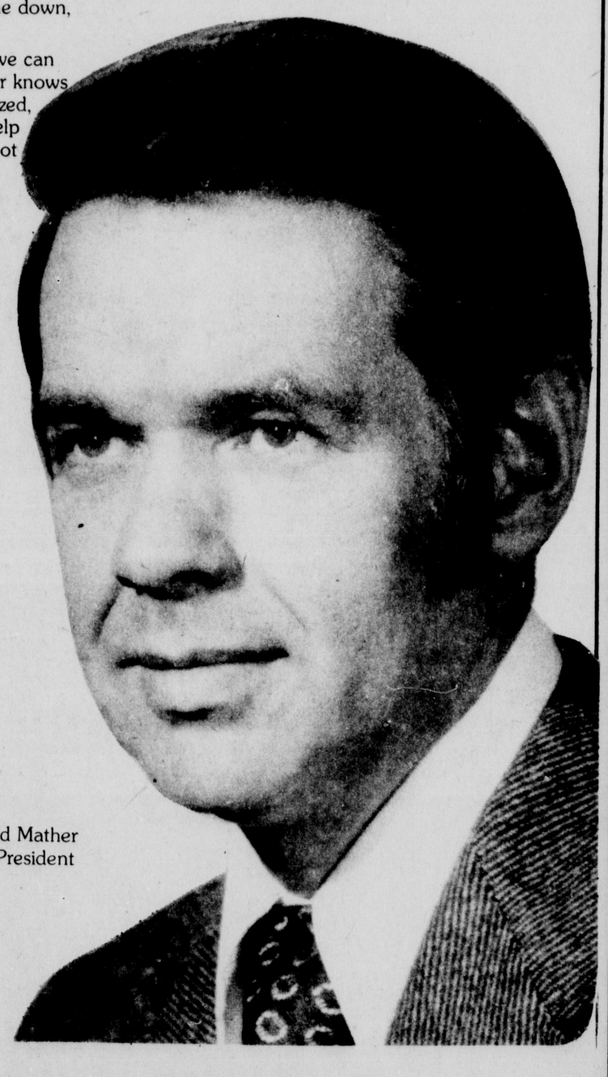

I've been at the Third, Sedalia's oldest and largest bank, for 20 years, and I've met a good many of the nicest people in Pettis County. That's the best part of my job.

Of course, I have to tell a few people "no" when they want to borrow, but at the Third, we go out of our way to try to help everyone who has a financial problem. When we do have to turn someone down, we try to explain why.

Another good thing about the Third is that we can make decisions fast ... with us, the customer knows where he stands. Since we're pretty good-sized, there aren't many problems that we can't help solve, and when you bank with us, you're not only taking care of yourself, you're helping Sedalia and Pettis County. You see, we're a local bank, and have been for nearly a hundred years ... and we plan to stay that way.

Stop by anytime. I'd like to tell you more about the advantages we have to offer.

Dislike for seatbelts voiced

The idea of forcing American drivers to wear auto seatbelts was rejected by every respondent to last Sunday's Democrat-Capital Survey. Of the 15 persons who replied, not one favored the idea.

They were asked: "Congress appears to be about to change federal law to make auto seatbelts and buzzer systems optional, instead of mandatory. Do you believe this should be done?

John L. Robinson, Windsor, wrote, "I think people should be allowed to make some decisions on their own, instead of having the government making so many decisions for them."

An unsigned noted said, "Are we men or mice? Next the feds will tuck you in bed with bed belts..."

Mrs. J. S. Ferers, Warrensburg, wrote: "Mandatory seatbelts are a crime against U. S. citizens. Our only recourse can only be to stop buying new cars. I have definitely made up my mind not to buy a new car as long as the seat belts are mandatory — and if I do buy a car, I will pay cash and have no insurance, because the whole thing is a product of the car insurance companies..."

Mrs. Paul Small, Windsor, said, "I believe that seatbelts and buzzer systems should be optional. Let the ones who wish use them, but those who do not use them, not be liable to penalty. The courts are so full of cases now that it takes days, weeks and years before cases finally reach (them). I believe it's time that the lawmakers stop using this time passing such inane measures and get down to the nitty gritty of business that this nation really needs."

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. vonBuelow, Florence, wrote: "Congress should definitely change federal law to make auto seatbelts and buzzers optional instead of mandatory. Why should one be forced to pay for something they do not want. I believe this should be optional but not mandatory."

A Sedalia reader who asked not to be identified, qualified his statements. He said, "An across-the-board, mandatory seatblet law is wrong. However, wearing seatbelts and using other devices could be made mandatory for those persons who have proven themselves to be a hazard on the highway, as a sort of punishment, since everybody thinks seatbelts are such an inconvenience. Good drivers don't need them or want them. The only other case where I can see mandatory seatbelts would be for children while riding in cars on long highway trips. That would insure they stay in their seats and it would also possibly save them from harm should an accident occur."

(The New York Times News Service reported this week that the ignition interlock system will not be required on 1975 and 1976 model cars, quoting a spokesman for the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, which has taken the action in response to criticism. For 1977 model cars the airbag "passive restraint system" is planned, according to the story.)

DEMOCRAT- CAPITAL SURVEY

QUESTION — Numerous incidents on Sedalia's North Side, one of the latest involving shots fired at a house while it was occupied by police officers, prompted some residents in that area to state they believe police actions to curb prostitution, gambling and drug traffic have been inadequate. Based on what you know, do you agree?

Missourians, paying more, getting less

WASHINGTON (AP) — In per-capita collection of federal income and employment taxes Missouri ranks 9th, but in the amount per person the state receives through revenue-sharing it rates 47th among the 50 states, according to a survey reported by Rep. Jerry Litton, D-Mo.

Litton said Friday he has been studying Missouri's ranking on revenue sharing for a year, with the aid of the General Accounting Office.

Litton's study showed Delaware paying the highest income and employment taxes per person, at $1,321, and Mississippi the least, at $476. Missouri paid $1,417 per person.

But the last, Mississippi, became first when it came to revenue-sharing, with that state receiving $61.92 per person. Missouri received $32.77 per person and Ohio, 50th, received $30.98.

Using another indicator, Litton said he calculated revenue-sharing payments as a percentage of taxes. Mississippi again came out on top, with its revenue-sharing money equal to 13 per cent of taxes paid.

Blind justice? ask Judge Corbin

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — Judge Louis Corbin says some persons coming before him have an advantage.

"Some judges, being human, might hold appearances against somebody. I don't even get upset over long hair," says Florida's only blind judge.

"It is a bit humorous," Corbin said in an interview on Friday. "My wife sometimes sits in court and tells me about some of the ladies, but I can't appreciate it."

Many persons don't realize that Corbin, 35 and blind since a shotgun accident at the age of 6, can't see them.

"Once a boy, the freaky type, finally realized I was blind and was upset because he had cut his hair to come to court," the judge said.

If there are any particular problems to being a blind judge, Corbin said he isn't aware of them, but he adds, "I admit I have to be more inventive."

In one case, Corbin had to examine a year-old, partially-eaten bun with half a bug in it.

"The defense left it up to the judge to decide if, in fact, it really was a bug," he said. "Every time I picked up that dried up bun, the alleged bug fell out. We had to solve the dilemma of trying to put insect legs back together."

Corbin decided in the plaintiff's favor — it was a bug, he said.

Judging the obscenity of alleged pornographic movies creates a bit of trouble, but Corbin has attorneys stipulate on scene synopses.

"I could have transfered the cases, which is done for several reasons and wouldn't have been a cop-out," he said. "But my ego and I wanted to prove that I could handle porno movie cases. We just had to work out a solution."

Corbin, a visiting judge in this Gulf Coast town, won his post as a county judge in Jacksonville in a runoff election in 1972. A lawyer since 1964, Corbin said he has little trouble keeping abreast of legal literature.

"You don't have to see to think," he said. "Any high school student can learn the mechanics of legal research. The trick is in interpreting."

Evangelist of free enterprise

Adnan Khashoggi, photographed recently aboard his DC-9 jet in Beirut, is a self-made multimillionaire from Saudi Arabia. He is the brains and driving force behind the Arab world's first multinational conglomerate, Triad. As a private entrepreneur, Khashoggi, 38, is working to bring capitalism and the free enterprise system to the Arab world — where royal and socialist governments control most of the wealth. (AP)

By FRANK N. HAWKINS JR.
Associated Press Writer

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — Well past midnight, the DC-9 smoothly touches down at Khartoum airport, unmarked except for the green stripe on the tail and the name Omaria in gold letters on the side. Two limousines are waiting.

A stocky Arab with twinkling eyes, his white robes flowing behind him, descends the ramp followed by American and Arab aides in Western business suits.

The man in robes is Adnan Khashoggi, a self-made multimillionaire from Saudi Arabia, the brains and driving force behind the Arab world's first multinational conglomerate, Triad.

His name is not yet a household word. But he jets around the world in his private DC-9 and sees heads of state, juggles high finance and enjoys all the comforts and life style of the rich.

The scene here is repeated several times each week as Khashoggi, 38, jets from continent to continent building an empire and carrying the message of free enterprise with evangelistic zeal.

Pilots of his luxuriously fitted plane estimate Khashoggi travels an exhausting 40,000 miles or more each month, visiting his various offices, homes and investments from Walnut Creek, Calif., to Phoenix to New York to Paris to Geneva, London, Beirut, Riyadh, Jeddah, Brazil and Indonesia.

"He practically lives on the plane," says one Khashoggi follower. That's not so hard. In the rear is a thickly carpeted bedroom that can sleep four and a full bath with shower. Forward is a wood-paneled office with telephone and wardrobe. In front of that, behind the flight deck and kitchen, is a living room seating 14 with a videotape television system.

Khashoggi has two full-time American flight crews of two men each. The plane costs nearly a million dollars a year. It frees him from the restrictions of commercial airline schedules. Often he works during the day and flies at night.

Stopping in Khartoum for a few hours to check on his latest investments, Khashoggi visited a $200 million oil refinery and a $300-million cattle ranch, meatpacking and food-producing complex.

Then he was off to Riyadh, then back to Beirut where his five children go to school and his lovely English-born wife Soraya, 27, makes her headquarters. Although the children are learning Arab culture and history as well as English, French and Arabic there, Mrs. Khashoggi says she doesn't regard herself as a Beirut resident. She says she lives wherever she happens to be.

Although Mrs. Khashoggi travels with her husband often, she has a growing reputation in Beirut as a professional photographer.

Khashoggi himself has been mistakenly identified with Arab oil money. Virtually unnoticed, he has become one of the largest private entrepreneurs in the Middle East.

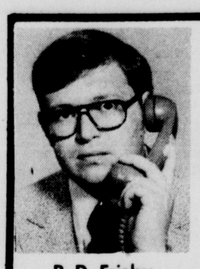

Khashoggi got his start as a student at Chico State College in Northern California in the 1950s. His father, the personal physician to the late King Ibn Saud, sent him $10,000 to buy a car similar to those other Arab students had. Instead, Khashoggi put the money in the bank.

"It's all memories now," he said in an interview on the flight from Beirut to Khartoum. "I had a contractor friend who told me about the tax advantages of leasing equipment. I got into that and the heavy truck business. I started marketing trucks in Saudi Arabia during summer holidays."

Heavy duty trucks, with large heavy tires and double radiator engines, were well-suited for hauling multi-ton loads through hot Arabian deserts. Khashoggi did so well with his investment that he eventually bought Kenworth, the company which made the trucks.

With this success, Khashoggi broke off his education and went home. He became the well-paid representative for a number of American firms including Lockheed, Raytheon, Litton Industries, Teledyne and others, including Rolls-Royce of Britain and France's arms export agency, Sofna.

As a private entrepreneur, Khashoggi is driving to bring capitalism and free enterprise to the Arab world where royal and socialist governments control most of the wealth.

Saxbe on crime war

After some initial successes, the nation's war on crime is again reeling from an upturn in criminal activity.

Attorney General William Saxbe reports that crime in the nation (which had decreased during 1972) increased 15 per cent in the first quarter of this year. He called the trend "harsh, bitter and dismaying," and said the nation is in "deep trouble" in its effort to control crime.

Saxbe said the federal government will help selected cities identify chronic offenders and send them to prison — hopefully to stay for a while. Taking a hard line on law enforcement, Saxbe said that most criminals commit crime because they want to, and consider the risks acceptable. He said we can no longer afford the attitude of "blaming crime on everything and everyone but the criminal."

The attorney general's no-nonsense approach to crime, and his candor in skewering some of the myths that excuse it, are welcome. We hope that all involved in fighting crime — the police, courts, penal institutions and parole boards — will take his remarks to heart.

Guest editorial

It pays to advertise

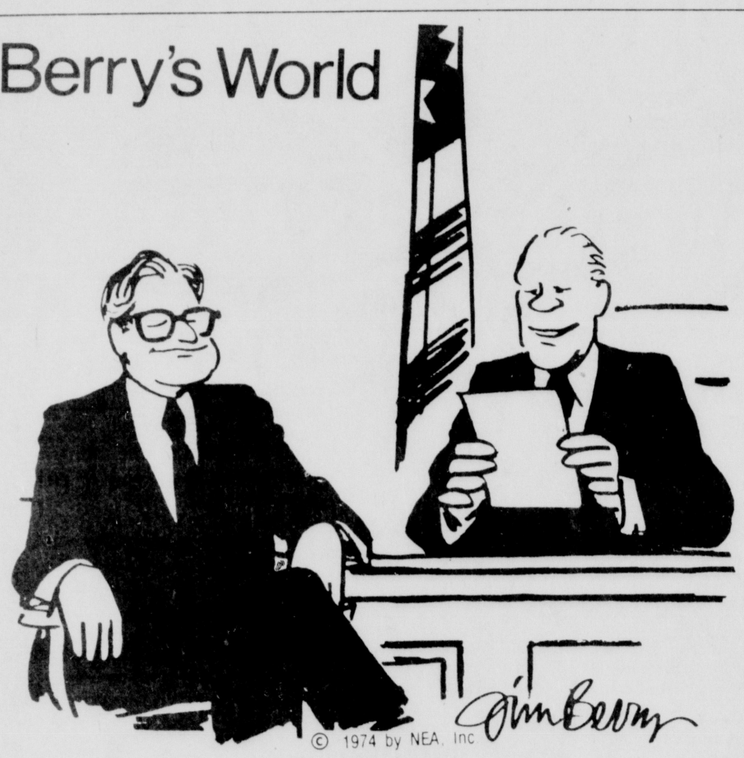

People at the office of the State Fair Secretary are puzzling over the reasons why attendance at the state fair this year fell by more than 10 per cent from last year's attendance.

Some 28,000 fewer people attended this year, after several years of steadily growing attendance records. It wasn't the rock festival, they said, and it wasn't because the grandstand shows now cost $1 minimum instead of being free as previously. They think it is due to rain and generally tight money.

They might look at their advertising, or lack of advertising, as a source for the decrease. This year fair officials budgeted some $3,000 for advertising the state event, compared to something in the neighborhood of $20,000 last year. Attendance over the last few years had been growing in proportion to the steadily growing advertising budgets until this year.

Fair officials might remember this next year. It pays to advertise . . . even a state fair. (Boonville Daily News)

Senator Eastland goes soft on pot

By JACK ANDERSON AND LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — James Eastland of Sunflower County, Miss., one of the Senate's crustiest conservatives, is walking proof that an old dog can learn new tricks.

The veteran Judiciary Committee chairman is working quietly to relax marijuana laws so young students and workers and other "pot" smokers will not be jailed for simple possession of the drug.

Eastland, whose closest contact with drugs is a good cigar and a tot of whiskey, has become convinced that jailing those caught with a few "joints" is not the way to stop marijuana traffic.

The contumacious senator underwent his metamorphosis after his old friend, ex-Marine Commandant Lewis Walt, conducted a world survey on drugs for Eastland's Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

After talking earnestly with Walt and listening to dozens of witnesses at various hearings, the senator came to the conclusion that "pot" may cause genetic, brain, lung and other damage. He also decided that traffickers still deserve stiff penalties and that even possession should not be completedly "decriminalized."

But the possibility of a year in jail and a $5,000 fine for a youth caught by federal agents with a single marijuana cigarette is excessive in Eastland's view. As a result, his Internal Security staff is conferring regularly with the Drug Enforcement Agency on possible legislation. Shortly after Labor Day, Senate staffers will meet with DEA's legal office to hammer out a formal draft.

Eastland has not made up his mind entirely, but he is toying with the idea of setting a fine for a first "possession" offense, and explicitly banning jail. A second offense would bring a stiffer fine.

Since state laws tend to follow federal statutes, and since Eastland's judiciary committee writes federal laws, it may be that a whole generation of marijuana dabblers will praise Jim Eastland's name.

Footnote: On Eastland's Mississippi plantation, state narcotics agents found a marijuana patch near the Sunflower River. The senator cooperated in a stake-out, but the "pot" planters, who had been harvesting by boat apparently learned of the surveillance and abandoned the crop.

NATURAL GAS: In letters to many newspapers, the American Petroleum Institute (API), whose members own much of the nation's natural gas, cites numerous figures to try to disprove our disclosures that Big Oil is driving up natural gas prices with faked figures.

It is worth noting that we sent our own figures to the API statisticians before we wrote our story. The API did not quibble with them then, and does not now in its letter. In fact, the API ignores the crucial figures.

To repeat them: Big Oil reported exploratory natural gas strikes from 7.9 to 9.4 per cent of the time off Louisiana until 1972 when they began to connive for price increases. Then, mysteriously, the strikes dropped to 2.4 per cent in 1972 and to a mere one per cent in 1973. This allowed the oil companies to demand more consumer money, supposedly so they could carry out more exploration.

It is small wonder that Federal Power Commission experts told us they had "never seen such a gross aberration" and the Senate Commerce Committee staff suggests the oil companies are "simply lying" in order to get more money.

A few other figures are glaringly omitted from the API letter: Some of its members with natural gas holdings report profit increases in excess of 100 per cent since the energy crisis began. Such profits are possible because gasoline and natural gas prices are up from 60 to 100 per cent and likely to climb still higher.

CRITICAL PUNISHMENT: The federal judges in Baltimore who stepped aside in the Agnew case to avoid any possible charges of cronyism have nevertheless tried to punish one of Agnew's most vocal critics.

The target of their unsuccessful action was John Banzhaf III, a prominent customer advocate and law professor in Washington. The Baltimore judges were incensed because Banzhaf had announced in a press release that he had filed suit to block then-Vice President Agnew from subpoenaing reporters and to force appointment of a special Agnew prosecutor.

One of the ringleaders in the unusual effort to punish Banzhaf was Federal Judge C. Stanely-Blair, an Agnew pal and aide who was given a lifetime judgeship by President Nixon at Agnew's bidding. The other was Judge Herbert Murray, personally cleared for his job in 1971 after a 30-minute interview with Agnew.

Claiming Banzhaf was in "apparent violation of the Code of Professional Responsibility," the Baltimore judges urged legal disciplinary authorities in Washington to investigate Banzhaf. After much waffling the Washington disciplinary unit threw the judges' request out.

Buckley on the UN a delight

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

NEW YORK — If the National Book Awards have an Oscar in the classification of "Most Delightful Book of the Year," I have a nomination: "United Nations Journal," by William F. Buckley Jr.

Kilpatrick

This is not the year's most profound work of non-fiction. It is not the most important book Mr. Buckley will ever write. But if your appetite leans toward pure delight, this is your dish.

Mr. Buckley, the columnist, editor, raconteur, yachtsman, world traveler, lecturer, TV inquisitor, and bon vivant, served from mid-September until mid-December of 1973 as a member of the United States delegation to the United Nations General Assembly. It was rather as if a fox had been elected to the board of the Chickens Alliance.

Why did he accept the post? "It was, I think, the only experience I ever had in pure, undiluted Walter Mittyism. I saw myself there, in the center of the great assembly at the U. N., holding the delegates spellbound as I read to them from Solzhenitsyn, as I described the latest account of concentration camps in Mainland China, as I pleaded the case of the ballet dancer Panov. I would cajole, wheedle, parry, thrust, mesmerize, dismay, seduce, intimidate. The press of the world would rivet its attention on the case the American delegate was making for human rights. . ."

It didn't work out that way. Mr. Buckley speedily discovered that on a scale of creative values, a U. N. delegate ranks somewhere south of a ventriloquist's dummy. He speaks when he is told to speak; he says what he is told to say; most of the time a delegate sits mute on the ambassador's knee. Mr. Buckley's golden tonsils never were exercised at all.

It might have proved a dreadful experience. My good friend is both actor and satirist, a kind of ham on wry, whose happiest hours are spent in the contemplation of his own mellifluous speech. Buckley mute is Buckley miserable. Instead of fretting at his diplomatic fetters, however, Mr. Buckley passed his time looking at the species he found in the zoo. The journal is a record of his bemused observations.

It was a busy season for the General Assembly. The Assembly never truly does anything. In sustantive terms, it does nothing; but it does nothing interminably. During the 1973 session the Assembly had Portugal to kick around, of course, and South Africa as well, but in addition to these familiar pastimes it had the Mideast to play with; it had General Mobutu of Zire, and it had questions involving Cuba, Cambodia, and Chile. The Assembly also had to suffer a hundred windy speeches on human rights, each of them compounded of high-flown oratory and flatulent hypocrisy, in the fashion of a concerto scored for kazoo.

The American delegate listened gravely to this palpable nonsense, as attentive as Alice to the Caterpillar, and wrote a journal that would have enchanted Lewis Carroll. It is a funny book — not merely funny, chuckle, but often funny, ha-ha — but it is filled with serious insights. Once when the delegate from Portugal was speaking, all other delegations walked out of the hall. This ritual insult "stressed the huge frailty of the General Assembly, the overarching paradox." Says Mr. Buckley:

"While as a legislative body, the Assembly is useless, and while as a debating body it is invaluable, it does a great deal of legislating, and absolutely no debating."

If the General Assembly engaged in serious debate, Mr. Buckley suggests, instead of in Punch-and-Judy puppitry, the Assembly might justify its existence as a forum in which nations of the world could search seriously for the moral reality of truth. But in this game of charades, the clues lead not to truth but to falsehood instead. "The United Nations," Mr. Buckley concludes, "is the most concentrated assault on moral reality in the history of free insitutions, and it does not do to ignore that fact or, worse, to get used ot it."

Johnson's Shut-Ins

Into the ancient rock formations
Black River has cut deep
Passing through unique canyon gorges
Where rocks are slippery and steep.
This is Johnson's Shut-Ins
Indescribable beauty and rare
Found in one of Missouri's State Parks
Nothing else with it can compare.
There in hundreds of rock pockets
Struggles the water clear
And in the enchanting stillness
The song of the river you hear.
It was in the geological past,
More than a billion years ago,
Where on the rocks of the rolling hills
Nothing could ever grow,
The hills of the Pre-Cambrian times
Of felsites and basalt rock made
Sometimes 1500 feet above
Where the valley floors laid,
Twice as high as the Ozark hills
As we know them today
And any soil from the weathering rock
Was quickly washed away,
The land plants that would hold it
Many millions of years later came
So rolling hills then and the Ozarks now
Were certainly not the same,
So for years nameless rivers
Into hills where nothing grew
Deeper and wider valleys
Were in the rocks cut through,
Then during the Palcozoic era
Came the seas covering valleys low
At first where only the hilltops
Then material from the distant shores
And dead sea organisms, too,
Filled the flooded valleys
And sediment by layers grew
Until it covered the hilltops
Now the seas are gone — but today
Rivers are cutting new valleys
As through the Ozarks they wind their way
And one is the Black River
Following the ancient Pre-Cambrian stream Giving Missouri one area
Of God's nature supreme
For here it encounters the hard rock
Of the Pre-Cambrian hills
And here the defiant gorges
With whirlpool water fills
This is a place spectacular,
Picturesque and vast
Where nature's forces of today are linked
With those of timeless past.

Reverend Glen Lindley, D. D., of Princeton, Illinois, has accepted the pastorate of the Federated Congregational and Presbyterian church of Sedalia. .

95 years ago

Sedalia has one road already through the beautiful Indian Territory, the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, and she certainly has no use for another. Not that a city can have too many railroads, but that some sections of the country are better for railroad purposes than others. One thing Sedalia does intodend to do, however, in connection with this Indian Territory. Sedalia means to be the great supply depot when it is opened up to settlement.

Speedy snails

Curious bioligists have sought to determine the speed of snails. Experiments with garden snails have measured sluggards crawling along at .00036 miles per hour and speedsters racing at .0313 miles an hour.

Our new President

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON — There will be no church in the White House during the Ford administration. President Ford and his family are Episcopalians. So far they have gotten in their various motor conveyances and returned to their Alexandria, Va., church, the Immanuel Church-on-the-Hill. The Fords have shown their loyalty to their home parish, but it may be that occasionally they'll want to walk across the street from the White House and attend historic St. John's on Lafayette Square.

The President is already facing controversial issues. Conservative Republicans and perhaps some conservative Democrats think he is paying too much attention to liberals including his vice presidential designate. It is about time that we stop using the terms conservative and liberal politically and apply the phrase, "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." Gerald Ford is now President of the United States and is President of all the people (he so stated) and not limited to the local provincial area of Grand Rapids, Mich. He has already broadened his outlook.

The question of amnesty for those persons who refused to fight a war in which they did not believe was bound to come up. It will be fair if each case is treated individually because some "draft dodgers" (or whatever name would describe them) refused for religious or other reasons. Many of them were just plainly against "the establishment," or the government, or just protesting without knowing why.

The matter of amnesty for the former President Nixon is also under discussion. Both Nelson Rockefeller and the President have stated that Nixon "has suffered enough." More evidence will be produced in the trials of the members of the Nixon Cabinet and staff with whom he was involved. Shakespeare handled it very well. He put both sides of the question in the words of Portia, a "most honorable judge" who beautifully expressed her thoughts on mercy (amnesty) in her famous "the quality of mercy is not strained" speech — but she held to the law on the terms Shylock had demanded: a pound of Antonio's flesh, no more, no less, not even a drop of blood.

The true point of justice must come from the courts, although letters of sympathy for the Nixon family are pouring into the newspapers. The final report of the Judiciary Committee to the House has been released to the press. The evidence of the President's part in the Watergate is all there in black and white (and of course on tape) and will be printed in the Congressional Record. The trials of his subordinates have been delayed several weeks which will add to the public opinion that it wants to get rid of Watergate, but Watergate will not be gotten rid of.

But other serious national problems must be solved. Inflation, economy and health which are personal to every citizen are mentioned but not solved. Ecology and conservation are rivaled with industry which is essential to the needs of men and women. Prices go up and the stock market goes down. The new President's success will depend upon how he and the Congress solve the important domestic problems which effect our daily lives.

President Ford has called a summit conference on the economy for Sept. 30 and has already informed and discussed it with his Cabinet. There will be 10 regional conferences on the subject in various sections of the country which will gather information for the summit.

We had been told that South was an exceptionally good bridge player. We had decided to watch him play to see how good he really was. It didn't take us long to find out. At trick two of the first hand we watched, he made a play that told us he had a lot to learn.

There was nothing wrong with his start. He went up quickly with dummy's queen of diamonds to start the proceedings and the queen held. Then he led dummy's king of clubs. East played the ace and right here is where our hero went wrong. He played the six spot from his own hand.

We had not been watching the East-West hands, but the play made us shudder. A good player would have played the eight or nine automatically.

Most of the time it would make no difference which low club he played. This time it cost him 800 points. The difference between 600 plus for game and rubber and 200 minus for down two.

East led a diamond at trick three to knock out South's ace. South led his nine of clubs to dummy's jack. Needless to say, West held back his ten. East showed out. Now if South still retained the six of clubs he could return to his hand, lead that six spot, overtake with dummy's seven, and run the rest of the suit. As it was, South had to try the heart finesse and go down two tricks when it lost.

Ann Landers

Youngest in family voices his complaint

Dear Ann Landers: You will probably be receiving plenty of letters about the boy who wrote to complain because he was "the kid in the middle."

Well, I'm the youngest and I would gladly trade places with him. Here are the reasons:

Whenever anyone comes to the house, Mom or Dad introduce me by saying, "And this is our baby." I am 14 years old.

Almost every teacher I've had says, "So you're another ——. Well, I hope you're the last because I don't think I could stand another one."

Grandparents always want the youngest to stay baby forever and it bugs me. Their favorite expression is, "My goodness, you're growing like a weed." (They see me every week.)

The youngest gets the hand-me-down clothes and the fewest privileges because even though he is grown-up, they think of him as a little kid and nothing will ever change it. — Last In Line And That's For Sure

Dear Pal: Would you believe I received more beefs from the OLDEST kid in the family? There's no way a child can pick his spot, so my advice to all of you is to make the best of it and kwitcherbellyachin'.

Dear Ann Landers: This is no problem. It's a complaint — against that bigmouth kid (aged 17) who was mad because salespeople and bus drivers kept calling him "Miss."

"So I wear long hair. Why not? It's the style," he wrote. Then he went on to say nobody thinks anything of it when girls wear jeans and shirts like guys. He claims the girls are copying the boys. His final clincher was, "I think it's rotten that I am mistaken for a girl but the girls in jeans and shirts are never mistaken for boys. How come?

Why didn't you tell the jerk that boys who wear long hair are copying the girls? Thanks. — Off My Chest

Dear Chest: Good point, but I made an even bigger gaffe by not telling him that it works both ways. Many a girl has been mistaken for a boy, like the time I told a neighbor, "I've seen your son in the elevator and he is very attractive." The woman replied coldly, "We don't have a son. That's our daughter."

Dear Ann Landers: I am not seeking advice. I have a word to say to the woman whose husband is eating breakfast downtown because his wife is such a slob.

Dear Friend: When you were dating, how much time did you spend primping before he came for you?

No husband expects his wife to look like Miss America at seven o'clock in the morning. But he is entitled to something better than a headful of rollers, a ratty bathrobe, and a sour face.

I am 23 and have been married for nearly three years. When I get up to fix my husband breakfast I take a few minutes to brush my hair, put on a little makeup and slip into a fresh house dress. I am not a raving beauty, but I look good enough to keep him out of restaurants in the morning. Just call me — A Smart Cookie

Dear Cookie: Please write to me again in ten years, after you've had three kids.

Confidential to Food, So What?" So PLENTY. Every cell in your body is made of what you eat. The ones you were born with are made of what your mother ate.

———

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Harness school opens enrollment

NEW YORK (AP) — The directors of the Harkness House for Ballet Arts have announced plans to open enrollment and charge tuition beginning with the fall 1974 semester.

Until now, the school operated on a full scholarship basis. Enrollment in the fall is expected to increase 150 per cent over the 1974 spring enrollment of 80. Approximately 45 full scholarships will be offered this fall. With the exception of those enrolled in open classes, students must audition.

The roll call report

Loan explanation issue rejected

By Roll Call Report

WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the days before the current congressional recess began on Aug. 22:

HOUSE

LOANS TO COMMUNISTS — Rejected, 178 for and 215 against, an amendment to require the Export-Import Bank to submit to Congress an explanation of each loan proposed to a Communist country, with either house having power to prevent the loan by voting disapproval within 30 days.

The parent bill gives the President power to determine whether such loans are in the "national interest," and stipulates that any proposed loan to a Communist country in excess of $50 million must be explained in writing to Congress 30 days before it is to take effect.

Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., the sponsor, said his amendment would help to counteract public opinion that Congress has "surrendered its responsibilities to the executive branch," and would give Congress more control over questionable loans. There were no floor remarks of opposition.

Reps. William Randall and Ichord voted yes.

SENATE

DEFENSE APPROPRIATIONS — Rejected, 44 for and 47 against, an amendment to lower U.S. military aid to South Vietnam from $700 million to $550 million in fiscal 1975. The amendment was proposed to the Defense Department appropriations bill.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., the sponsor, cited Defense Intelligence Agency statistics showing that the United States is providing eight times as much money to South Vietnam as the Republic of China and the Soviet Union together are giving to North Vietnam. Proxmire warned that unless the Senate reduces "unnecessary" military spending "inflation will continue to rage." If domestic programs such as mass transit aid must feel the pinch of inflation, so should aid to South Vietnam, he said.

Quoting a State Department report, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., disagreed with Proxmire, saying that the 8-1 ratio actually is 4-3 and that a greater U. S. outlay is justified because "it is more expensive to guard a bank than to rob it."

Goldwater added that unless the U. S. continues a high level of aid South Vietnam will "go down the drain."

Sens. Stuart Symington and Thomas Eagleton voted yes.

INFLATION CONTROL — Tabled, 50 for and 35 against, an amendment giving the new Council on Wage and Price Stability power to delay major wage and price increases for 60 days. The amendment had been proposed to White House-requested legislation setting up the council to fight inflation.

Supporters of the tabling motion, who opposed the 60-day cooling-off provision, said the amendment would smack of wage-and-price controls, which President Ford had not requested. They said Congress should give the President only the tools he requests.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., sponsored the amendment and opposed the tabling motion. He said the new council's power to hold hearings into wage and price increases will be of little value without a cooling-off period, for hearings are scheduled to take place after the increases occur. "A major review procedure before the increase was put into effect would cause corporations or unions to proceed more cautiously...," Javits said.

Eagleton voted yes; Symington voted no.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Blubaugh, 1801 East 15th, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cole, 627 East 16th.

The Rev. Robert Magee performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with apricot gladioli and yellow daisy pom pons. Mrs. Otis Thomas was the organist and David Rayl was the soloist.

Miss Kim Blubaugh, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Miss Cindy Alexander was the bridesmaid. They wore long gowns of apricot crepe, featuring V-necked bodices, notched collars and gathered skirts.

Tim Murphy, cousin of the bride, and Richie Arnett, nephew of the groom, were candlelighters. Miss Robin Arnett, niece of the groom, was the flower girl and Johnny Harper was the ringbearer.

Steve Blubaugh, brother of the bride, was the best man and Neal Porter was the groomsman. Seating the guests were John Schmidt and Cliff Potter.

Following a reception in the fellowship hall of the church, the couple left on a honeymoon to the Lake of the Ozarks. The bride wore a yellow skirt with matching shirt and jacket.

The couple will be at home in Mexico where the groom is a supervisor for A.P. Green Refractories. He is a 1974 graduate of the University of Missouri-Columbia. The bride, a graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, has attended Southwest Missouri State University.

Morarity-Schumacher

COLE CAMP — Trinity Lutheran Church here was the setting for the Aug. 17 wedding of Miss Barbara Morarity and Elroy Schumacher.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Morarity and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Emil Schumacher, Cole Camp.

The Rev. Gary Clayton performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with multicolored daisies, mums and carnations. Leonard Schnell was the organist and Gary Clayton was the soloist.

Miss Jeanie Morarity, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Miss Connie Morarity, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Linda Heimsoth, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. They wore yellow empire-waisted gowns, accented at the neckline and sleeves with lace.

Debbie Shaft was the flower girl and Karl Schnakenberg was the ringbearer. Candlelighters were Dennis Schnakenberg and Mechelle Morarity.

Kenneth Schumacher, cousin of the groom, was the best man. Dale Martin and Gary Buford were groomsmen. Seating the guests were Melvin Schnakenberg, Leroy Morarity and Mike Heimsoth.

The bride is a graduate of Central Missouri State University, Warrensburg, and the groom is a senior at CMSU majoring in biology and chemistry.

Arnold-Vilelle

COLE CAMP — Miss Martha Ann Arnold and Donald E. Vilelle were married at 2 p.m. Aug. 17 at the First United Methodist Church here by the Rev. Paul Bond.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira W. Arnold, Cole Camp, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dave Vilelle, South Pasadena, Calif.

White pom pons and palms decorated the altar. Sandy Schlesselman was the organist and Blair Campbell was the soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long crepe gown featuring long tapered sleeves, a high neck bodice and skirt panels of lace. Her fingertip veil was of white tulle. Her only jewelry was heart-shaped diamond earrings, a gift of the groom's mother.

Miss Norma Eickhoff was the maid of honor and Miss Cindy Heimsoth was the bridesmaid. They wore long yellow crepe gowns, accented with yellow lace and featuring round necklines and puffed sleeves. They wore clusters of daisies in their hair.

Best man was William Smart and Leonard Creek was the groomsman. Dana and Delwyn Duncan seated the guests.

Following a reception in the church basement, the couple left on a honeymoon to southwestern Missouri. The bride wore a yellow dotted swiss dress.

The couple will be at home at Cole Camp, where the groom is a teacher and coach at Benton County R-I School and the bride is a teacher's aide there.

Belker-Ricker

Miss Linda Kay Belker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Belker, 508 West Fifth, and Michael Leon Ricker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fester Ricker, Kansas City, were married in an evening mass Aug. 17. The Rev. Vincent Hoying performed the double ring ceremony at Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

Multicolored daisies decorated the altar. David Rayl was the organist and Bill Bob Long was the soloist.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a traditional gown of organza eyelet. Her bodice was accented with long fitted sleeves and tiers of eyelet ruffling fell from her natural waist to sweep a chapel train. A crown of daisy flowers secured her mantilla.

Mrs. Carroll Dean Roberts, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. Mrs. Frank Bishop was the bridesmaid and Miss Dana Roberts, niece of the bride, was the junior bridesmaid. Dawn Blake, cousin of the groom, was the flower girl. They wore long aqua, yellow and pink organza print dresses.

Greg Foster was the best man. Steve Eck was groomsman and Doug Roberts was junior groomsman. Pat Belker, nelphew of the bride, was the ringbearer. Greg Brown was lector and Greg and Bryan Dick were the altar boys.

Following a dinner and dance at the Moose Lodge, the couple left on a wedding trip to the Paudre Islands.

The couple will be at home in Columbia, where the groom is employed with the Missouri Conservation Department and the bride will complete her senior year at the University of Missouri.

Ehlers-Guier

COLE CAMP — Miss Judy Ehlers and Roy Guier were united in marriage at 2 p.m. Aug. 18 at Trinity Lutheran Church here.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ehlers, Cole Camp, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Guier, Sweet Springs.

Marilyn Guier was the organist. Lynette Heimsoth and Wanda Miesner were the vocalists.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long crepe gown styled with an empire waist, low neckline and train. Her bodice and long full sleeves were of eyelet with crepe cuffs. Her fingertip veil was secured to a crepe and eyelet juliet cap.

Marcia Kaden, cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor. Linda Albin and Shirley Dierker, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. They wore long yellow crepe gowns and wide-brimmed yellow hats.

Berry and Dean Guier, brothers of the groom, were candlelighters. Loretta Kaden, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl. Johnny Ehlers, brother of the bride, was the ringbearer.

Kelly Guier, brother of the groom, served as best man while John Bushnell and Jim Gehlken were groomsmen. Seating the guests were Nelson Guier, brother of the groom, and Randy Arnold.

Following a reception in the Lutheran School basement, the couple left on a honeymoon to the Lodge of the Four Seasons. The bride wore a blue and white pantsuit.

They will be at home at Stillman Valley, Ill., where the groom is employed by Fred Bushnell. He is a 1973 graduate of State Fair Community College. The bride is a 1974 graduate of SFCC.

Garner-Salmons

Miss Monique Louise Garner and Robert Don Salmons were married at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 20 at the Shrine of Jesus Home Chapel by the Rev. Doyle Ross Mabry.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Garner, 821 West Henry, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lester Salmons, 509 West Second.

Summer flowers decorated the altar.

New amendment for children sought

NEW YORK (AP) — Every child should have the right to be brought up "relatively safely in a dangerous and harmful world," insists Shirley Camper Soman, who is calling for a constitutional amendment on behalf of children's rights.

She is concerned not only with what she says are unnecessary injuries and fatalities among youngsters but also with economic, educational and emotional problems children face.

"Unhappy kids become unhappy parents," she says. "Trauma in their own childhood results in a setback in personality development and emotional capacity, and they will be less able to become mature and give to their own children."

One way to break this cycle, she adds, is to "give an awful lot" to the people who need it in the form of aids such as homemaker service and day care. Not only does this provide concrete help — it is also a symbol of society saying "we care about you."

"People care a lot about their own children and children of their friends and their family, but nobody cares about children half a continent away, working in the fields, not seeing the doctor, not getting their teeth taken care of, without decent housing, not getting enough to eat," declares Mrs. Soman, who has just written a book about the hazards of childhood, "Let's Stop Destroying Our Children."

For the past few years the author has been collecting thousands of clippings and case histories about "children who didn't have to die — or children who were severely injured, abused, neglected or abandoned. My aim has been to look at every one and say 'what could have been done to prevent it?' I wrote the book to spark change, to save children's lives, health and sanity," she says.

"There are still many unsafe toys," Mrs. Soman claims. "I blame the consumer for lack of knowledge and information; the government for lack of regulation and enforcement; and the manufacturer, who has the very human desire to make a buck any way he can and who considers children as customers, as inanimate objects rather than human beings."

In addition to dangerous products, says Mrs. Soman, there are "unsafe community conditions; lack of preventive health care; lack of emergency medical services; lack of sufficient and good social services to families; violence toward children and violence in society; a rigid and stultified educational system."

Mrs. Soman, who has a grown son and daughter, has a Master of Social Science degree from Smith College. In addition to her career as a social worker she has been a child care columnist and an editor for national magazines.

Her Bill of Rights for Children, which she has been advocating through letters to government officials and congressmen, suggests that every child has a right to:

—A family who wants him or her;

—Physical safety and health care before and after birth;

—The basics of life itself, including love;

—Learn and be educated;

—Enjoyment, play, laughter;

—A community that cares for child and family;

—Professional help for child and family;

—The same constitutional protections as anyone else;

—Understanding, tolerance, acceptance on the part of all adults;

—Adult models demonstrating consideration, integrity, ethics and, most especially, compassion;

—A peaceful, nonracist world where violence, massacres and wars are considered obsolete;

—His or her own identity;

—Any baby born alive has the right to live.

The couple also has ten grandchildren.

Golden anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Seth Clark White, 509 East Walnut, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary with an open house hosted by their children from 2 to 4 p.m. Sept. 8 at the Emmett Avenue Baptist Church. They were married Sept. 12, 1924, at Smithton and have five children, Herman White, Mrs. Melvin Heaper, Mrs. Tommy Fowler, William White and Mrs. Elizabeth Phillips; 20 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Quotable women

By The Associated Press

"Making a film was not something that was directly on my mind. It began to develop as a means of saying something about someone I've known for 25 years and who is more intriguing, more convoluted and driven by a greater variety of impulses than anyone I've ever met." Judy Collins, singer of folk and popular songs, talking about a film she produced and codirected about Antonia Brico, the first woman to conduct the New York Philharmonic.

"Every time we go campaigning, men come up to us to complain about how other men have screwed up things so badly they're ready to try a woman in politics." Roberta Weiner, legislative coordinator of the New York State Women's Political Caucus, speaking on Women's Equality Day.

"I know that many think that because I am a woman, I cannot take over the helm. But I have two arms, and in one hand I have Peron and in the other Eva Peron." President Isabel Peron of Argentina, speaking in her first public rally since she took office in Buenos Aires.

"Like most women, I have weight problems. I've lost 31½ pounds and I want to lose 30 more. They can pad me to make me look like Bessie Smith. They can put it on wherever they need it, to make me look bigger. I just know that the more I lose, the better I feel." Singer Roberta Flack, who will portray the late blues singer Bessie Smith in the coming film "Bessie."

Army Private Claude A. Knight, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude H. Knight, Route 1, completed eight weeks of basic training at Ft. Leonard Wood.

He received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, combat tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid and Army history and traditions.

His wife, Dee Ann, lives at 201 East Broadway.

Two students from Pettis County have made the 1974 summer honor roll at Southwest Missouri State University, Springfield. The honor roll, which is compiled of semester grade points from 3.50 to a possible 4.00, was recently announced by Lyle Leisenring, director of admissions and records.

Those students on the honor roll are Brenda J. Horttor and Glenda J. Rohrback, both of Sedalia, and both with a 4.00 average.

Joseph A. Bazin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Bazin, 1113 West Third, has been assigned to Vance AFB, Okla., from Thailand. An Air Force captain, Bazin is an instructor pilot with the 8th Flying Training Squadron.

A 1965 graduate of Helias High School in Jefferson City, Mo., he received his B.S. and B.A. degrees in 1969 from Rockhurst College.

William R. Buchholtz, son of Mrs. Grace E. Buchholtz, 1320 West Fourth, is among more than 1,500 cadets who have entered their freshman year at the U.S. Air Force Academy.

Cadet Buchholtz was accepted into the cadet wing after completing six weeks of intensive field training, physical conditioning and survival instruction at the academy.

The cadet has begun four years of academic study and military training that will lead to a bachelor of science degree in one of 21 major fields and a commission as an Air Force second lieutenant.

Cadet Buchholtz is a 1974 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School.

Sputtering Cards lose again

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Shortstop Mike Tyson's error on Bruce Miller's two-out grounder in the fourth inning allowed the San Francisco Giants to break a 1-1 tie with a pair of unearned runs and beat the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2 Saturday.

With the Cards leading 1-0 in the fourth, Gary Thomasson singled off Bob Forsch, 3-4. Thomasson stole second, went to third on catcher Ted Simmons' overthrow and, after Gary Matthews walked, came in to score the tying run on Ed Goodson's single.

Matthews and Goosdon moved up on a double steal as Dave Kingman struck out. Miller then grounded to Tyson who booted it, allowing both runners to score.

The Cards closed to 3-2 in the eighth when Lou Brock led off with a pinch-single, stole second and scored on Smith's single. It was Brock's 94th stolen base of the year as he closes in on Maury Wills' single-season mark of 104 in 1962 and Ty Cobb's 96 in 1915.

Rookie John D'Acquisto, 10-12, survived a shaky first inning to post his first victory since July 21. With two out in the first, Reggie Smith and Ted Simmons singled. Simmons was caught in a run-down between first and second, but before he could be tagged out Smith crossed the plate with the Cards first run.

Mets 6, Braves 5

NEW YORK (AP) — Rusty Staub's two-run single in the eighth inning lifted the New York Mets to a 6-5 victory over the Atlanta Braves Saturday.

Staub, who earlier had tripled to drive in a run, connected off reliever Tom House with two outs to drive home Ken Boswell and Bud Harrelson. Boswell had opened the inning with a pinch-hit single and Harrelson had followed with a single to left.

The Braves trailed 4-0 entering the sixth inning but scored three time and added two in the seventh.

Consecutive walks to Darrell Evans and Dusty Baker opened the Atlanta sixth, then New York second baseman Felix Millan missed Lum's ground ball. Evans scored on the misplay, Baker moved to third, and Lum reached second—setting up a two-run single by Craig Robinson.

Ralph Garr doubled to lead off the seventh, then Marty Perez and Evans walked to load the bases and knock Koosman out. Garr's hit was his 200th of the season, making him the first major leaguer to reach that plateau this year.

Reds 10, Expos 3

CINCINNATI (AP) — Johnny Bench drove in seven runs with a double and the third grand slam home run of his career, helping Jack Billingham become the National League's first 17-game winner this season with a 10-3 drubbing of the Montreal Expos Saturday night.

Bench paced an 11-hit Cincinnati attack with a three-run double in the second and the grand slam in the sixth, raising to 105 his RBI total for the baseball season.

Dan Driessen's bases-loaded single gave the Reds a 1-0 lead in the first. Bench hit his double in the second after Pete Rose had driven in a run with a single.

The Expos cut the margin to 5-2 in the second on a bases-loaded single by Larry Lintz, but Bench put the game away with his 27th homer of the year, in a five-run sixth.

Billingham, 17-8, teamed with Pedro Borbon to stop the Expos on nine hits—including Ken Singleton's ninth-inning solo home run.

Phillies 10, Astros 6

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jay Johnstone and Willie Montanez each drove in three runs Saturday night to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to a 10-6 rout of the Houston Astros.

Johnstone connected for a home run, his sixth of the season, with two on in the second inning, while Montanez hit a bases-loaded double to highlight a seven-run fourth inning that broke open the game.

Bob Boone and Greg Luzinski had run-scoring singles and pinch-hitter Ollie Brown delivered an RBI double in the big inning. Larry Bowa drove in the other run with a sacrifice fly.

Houston scored an unearned run in the third when Doug Rader singled to center and scored when the ball bounced past center fielder Del Unser.

The Astros got three runs more in the fourth off starter Jim Lonborg. Roger Metzger and Cesar Cedeno doubled for one run and Milt May hit a two-run homer, his fifth of the season. Cedeno homered in the eighth for his 23rd of the baseball season.

Cards, Royals both defeated

By The Associated Press

A pair of Mikes-Cuellar and Caldwell-Meant bad news for Kansas City and St. Louis in major league baseball Friday night as the Royals bowed to Baltimore 9-2 and the Cardinals dropped an 8-2 decision to San Francisco.

Cuellar scattered eight Royal hits and Kansas City starter Bruce Dal Canton walked three men and threw two wild pitches in 1 2-3 innings. The Orioles scored three times in the first and added another in the second. Cuellar now is 16-10, Dal Canton 8-7.

On the West Coast the Giants racked up five runs in the first frame. Three of them came on Dave Kingman's homer, his 15th of the year.

Chiefs fall to Cowboys

DALLAS (AP) — The clutch passing of unheralded rookie quarterback Clint Longley and a costly 49-yard interference penalty ignited the Dallas Cowd boys to a 25-16 National Football League exhibition victory Saturday night over the Kansas City Chiefs.

Longley, the national small college passing leader in 1973 at Abilene Christian, No. 1 draft choice Charles Young of North Carolina State, and another rookie, Dennis Morgan of Werejen, Ill., played the heroes' role as Dallas extended its preseason mark to 3-2.

Longley was pressed into service in the second half with Dallas behind 13-10.

Morgan returned a kickoff 77 yards to set up a 17-yard touchdown run by Young to make it 16-13.

Then the Chiefs' Jan Stenerud kicked his third field goal to tie the score 16-all.

Kansas City's Jim Marsalis was flagged for interfering with Bob Hayef on a long pass from Longley. The 49-yard penalty put Dallas in position for Calvin Hill's one-yard touchdown run.

The ice-cool Longley then completed passes of 20 and 22 yards on Dallas' next possession and Marv Bateman then kicked a game-clinching 29-yard field goal.

Besides field goals of 24, 42 and 24 yards, the Chiefs also tallied on a 20-yard screen pass from Len Dawson to Willie Nelson.

Frazier-Ali set to spar for charity

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Heavyweight champion George Foreman and former champions Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier will spar for charity Tuesday night at the Salt Palace.

Each man is scheduled to box a three-round exhibition with sparring partners, with Joe Louis, another former heavyweight champion, expected to referee one of the exhibitions.

Promoters said two 12-round fights will be held: George Cooper of Oakland versus Cipriano Hernandez of Tuscon, Ariz., in a middleweight fight and Chuck Wepner of Bayonne, N.J., opposing Terry Hinke of Hayward, Calif., in a heavyweight bout.

Title match tops Tuesday wrestling card

Also on the four-event program, sponsored by the local American Legion post, will be a tag team match between The Interns, managed by Ken Ramey, and The Viking and "Bad News" Beech.

Intern No. 1 will take on The Viking in the opening match at 8:30 p.m.

Redskins recall Duane Thomas from waivers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins have recalled running back Duane Thomas from waivers but his future role with the National Football League team remained uncertain Saturday.

"We still haven't decided what we're going to do," Coach George Allen said. "We said we're going to make a decision in three or four days and that still stands."

Sooners are choice to unseat Notre Dame as national champ

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The Oklahoma Sooners, who finished third last season, have been tapped to unseat Notre Dame as college football's national champion.

In nationwide balloting by the 58 members of The Associated Press panel of sports writers and broadcasters, Oklahoma received 23 first-place votes and 976 of a possible 1,160 points.

Trailing the Sooners in the preseason voting were Ohio State, Notre Dame and Alabama. The rest of the Top Ten consisted of Southern California, Michigan, Nebraska, Penn State, Louisiana State and Texas.

"I think it's great to be No. 1, but it puts a lot of pressure on us," said Oklahoma's Barry Switzer, who compiled a 10-0-1 mark last season in his debut as a head coach. "When Playboy picks you No. 1 you don't feel the pressure, but when the writers and broadcasters pick you No. 1 the pressure is really on . . . ."

The Sooners are winding up a two-year probation levied by the National Collegiate Athletic Association for recruiting violations and cannot go to a bowl game this season.

Ohio State, which finished second in last year's final AP poll after a convincing 42-21 Rose Bowl rout of Southern Cal, received 14 first-place votes and 907 points.

Notre Dame won the 1973 national championship by eeking out a 24-23 victory over Alabama in the Sugar Bowl, but the Fighting Irish were rated third in the preseason poll with 13 first-place votes and 864 points.

Alabama was fourth, just as it was in the final 1973 AP poll, with six first-place votes and 859 points. Southern Cal, the 1972 champion, received one first-place ballot and 752 points. The other first-place vote went to Michigan, which had 586 points.

Southern Cal was No. 1 in last year's preseason poll, while Notre Dame, the eventual champion was eighth. Oklahoma was 11th.

This year's preseason Second Ten consisted of Houston, UCLA, Pitt, Maryland, Arizona State, Tennessee, Arizona, North Carolina State, Arkansas and Texas A&M.

The final 1973 poll: Notre Dame, Ohio State, Oklahoma, Atabama, Penn State, Michigan, Nebraska, Southern California, Arizona State and Houston tied for ninth, Texas Tech, UCLA, Louisiana State, Texas, Miami of Ohio, North Carolina State, Missouri, Kansas and Tennessee, with Maryland and Tulane tied for 20th.

Southern 500 anniversary

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — Buddy Baker, built like an ox, wept unabashedly when he won the Southern 500 stock car race in 1970.

The late Glen "Fireball" Roberts said after the first of his two victories in 1958 and 1963, "This is the big moment of my life, regardless of what I do in the future."

Darlington Raceway, a sunbaked ribbon of asphalt that sits squarely in the middle of cotton, tobacco and soybean fields, celebrates its 25th anniversary Monday with a $151,350 production that, with the exception of current model cars, won't be too different from the first one on Labor Day, 1950.

There is something hallowed about Darlington. Virtually all the drivers would rather win this than any other event on the Grand National circuit of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

"There's only one other auto race that carries as much prestige," said Elmo angley, who celebrated his 45th birthday last week. "Indianapolis has a longer history, but to a stock car driver, Darlington is the ultimate."

Langley first ran the old raceway in 1956. He has never won on it.

Even so, he admits "the hackles start creeping up my spine when I come down here. It's too late for me to win now, but I'll keep coming back as long as I live and breathe."

At Darlington, more than any other place except Indy, racing is a gamble—of lives and fortunes.

The raceway itself was a gamble on the part of those who built it. Carved out of a rundown cotton field, it was the first so-called "superspeedway" built in the South. Nobody expected it to last. But the first race, on Labor Day, 1950, drew 75 entries and 25,000 persons who paid $5 each to watch it. Stock car racing was off and running on a course that made it Dixie's biggest attendance sport.

The place has changed very little. Originally it was a one-mile elongated oval. The distance was extended to a mile and three-eighths in 1955 and, except for the addition of grandstands, that's the way it is now.

Tuning up for Friday

Attitude's not one of Cook's problems

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

For the first time in Greg Cook's five-year coaching career at Smith-Cotton High School, he admits that he didn't have to worry about the attitude of his players.

"Every year I've been concerned about the attitude of the players, but not this year ... it's there ... right now the biggest thing is getting them in shape and working on execution," he said Friday before the Tigers went through their scrimmage.

"The belief of having a good football team is there. It's something that they (the players) aren't worrying about, because they came into camp mentally prepared," he added.

The Tigers, who lack the size they had a year ago when the team posted its best record in 20 years at 7-3, are tuning up for Friday's season opener in Blue Springs.

"The (lack of) size doesn't bother me that much. I think we can make up for in with our quickness and speed," Cook pointed out.

"We're big enough to win," he said.

Thus far, Cook hasn't been faced with an injury problem. However, Jim Vansell, a starting halfback as a junior last season, is still slowed by a knee injury he sustained during baseball season in the spring, and is questionable for duty Friday.

Some of the biggest holes Cook has to fill on this year's team are on the offensive and defensive lines.

On offense, returnee Larry Miley and Harry Browder, who saw part-time duty as a junior in 1973, have been running in the first team double-tight end alignment. DeWayne Stratman, a returning starter, and letterman Dennis VanBaale, hold down the first team tackle spots. Both double on defense as tackles.

The backfield, where Cook has a lot of talent returning, features senior quarterback Rick McRoy, who has held that spot for two years. Bot Trautman, who averaged 8.3 yards per carry as a sophomore is at ore halfback spot; the other is currently held by senior Ray Newbill, who was an all-conference and all-district choice as a linebacker on defense in 1973.

Fullback is the most unsettled spot heading toward the opener. Bill Deuel, a senior; Andy Adams, who has been the most impressive sohpomore so far in camp; and senior Jim Fairfax are fighting it out for the top spot.

In addition to Stratman and VanBaale on the defensive line, Jim Giokaris, a returning starter, and Fox have temporarily won the battle for the defensive end spots. Barns and Paul are at the guard spots.

Miley and Marvin Spruell, who can double in the offensive backfield, are the deep backs.

Tom Weiskopf went 11 strokes below par on the par 5 holes during the 1974 Masters tournament. But he was three strokes over on the par 3s and 4s and tied for second place.

Pate surges late to win Amateur

RIDGEWOOD, N.J. (AP) — Scrambling Jerry Pate, three strokes down at one time, pulled his game together for a comeback that destroyed John Grace's dreams of glory with a 2-and-1 decision Saturday in the 36-hole match play finals of the U.S. Amateur Golf Championship.

The 20-year-old Pate, who has been playing hooky from classes at the University of Alabama for the last week, trailed for 14 consecutive holes before beginning his winning drive on the oak-lined fairways and gently rolling hills of the Ridgewood Country Club course.

The skinny blond won three holes in a row—two with birdies late in the hazy summer afternoon—and closed out the diminutive Grace with a half on the 17th hole. Each made par five.

Pate, who harbors considerable ambition to join the lucrative pro tour when his college days are over, had been behind from the final hole of the morning round until he got untracked on the 14th hole of the afternoon round.

Grace, a short-hitting weekend golfer from Fort Worth, Tex., gave away dozens of yards off the tee and his lack of length began to tell late in the day.

He needed a wood club for his second shot to the green on the 410-yard 14th hole, and pushed it right into the deep rough. He took three to get down and lost the hole to Pate's routine par.

That squared the match and Pate had his opening. He rifled an iron shot only three feet from the flag on the 200-yard 15th and made the birdie putt.

Coach Al Onofrio said the three and a half hour controlled practice demonstrated the Tigers' progress, but there was "lots of room for improvement."

Mark Miller, LaMont Downer and Less Frank also caught scoring passes.

Iowa State

AMES, Iowa (AP)—Iowa State conducted a two hour 45 minute controlled scrimmage behind locked gates Saturday in the Cyclones first major scrimmage this fall.

Head Coach Earle Bruce said he was pleased with the running of Mike Strachan and Phil Danowsky and with the defense in general.

Strachan, an all-American candidate at tailback, scored twice on runs of 51 and 44 yards against the second team defense while Danowsky continually gained good yardage from his fullback position.

Bruce said he was displeased with the Cyclones' passing game and that it needed plenty of work before the Sept. 14 opener at Texas Tech.

Kansas State

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP)-Kansas State football Coach Vince Gibson strained to find the sunshine after watching his first offensive and defensive teams come from behind to down the second and third teams, 32-27, in Saturday's scrimmage.

"I thought it was a tremendous learning experience," he said, "because we made 10,000 mistakes the first half. At times we couldn't do anything right."

Kansas

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Defense is considered the strong suit at Kansas, but a quick striking veer-T offense stole the show at Saturday's football scrimmage, bearing out week-long claims by Coach Don Fambrough that his option-oriented offense has arrived.

"We're continuing to progress offensively every day," he said. "Our timing is improving, and our ball-handling is much improved."

The Kansas regulars had few problems in smothering the reserve squad composed of third-team and freshmen players 64-7.

Oklahoma State

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—Sophomore quarterback Charlie Weatherbie completed 11 passes in 13 attempts for 194 yards during Oklahoma State's second fall drill scrimmage Saturday.

Freshman halfback Terry Miller scored twice during the afternoon on runs of three and 20 yards. Miller carried 14 times for 56 yards, second only to fullback George Palmer who went 80 yards on 14 carries.

Oklahoma

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma University Sooner Grant Burget roared in from the one-yard line and again from the 22 in the first two possessions by OU's first string offense during Saturday's controlled scrimmage at Owen Stadium.

Both scores were set up by big plays. Quarterback Steve Davis hit split end Tinker Owens with a 32-yard pass during the first TD drive and fullback Jim Littrell ran for 17 yards, setting up Burget's run on the next.

Owens also hauled in a 14 yard pass on the second possession.

Colorado

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Colorado's defense kept the offense scoreless Saturday in a two-hour scrimmage marked by linebacker Ed Shoen's pass interception and 42-yard runback for a touchdown.

Defensive halfback Tom Hilton came up with a diving interception at the 18-yard line early in the scrimmage to stop another drive.

Tailback Melvin Johnson scored on a 56-yard run but the touchdown was called back because of a clipping penalty.

Upsets Borg

Vijay Amritraj of India upset Bjorn Borg of Sweden Saturday in a second round match of the U.S. Open Championships at Forest Hills, N.Y. The Indian (shown here) won the match 6-1, 7-6, 3-6, 1-6, 6-2. (AP Wirephoto)

Grich's homer beats Royals

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Bobby Grich's two-run double highlighted a three-run seventh inning that carried the Baltimore Orioles to a 3-2 victory over the Kansas City Royals Saturday night.

Jim Palmer, 5-10, got the victory, with relief help from Grant Jackson in the eighth. Paul Splittorff, 13-14, took the loss.

Palmer gave up a run in the first inning on singles by Vada Pinson and Cookie Rojas and a sacrifice fly by Amos Otis, and that was all the scoring until the seventh.

Splittorff, who had allowed just four hits over the first six innings, gave up a scratch single to Enos Cabell and a single to left by Andy Etchebaren. Cabell hustled to third when left fielder Hal McRae bobbled Etchebarren's hit. Splittorff walked Mark Belanger to load the bases.

After Paul Blair forced Cabell at the plate, Grich smacked his double past third to put the Orioles in front. Steve Mingori came in and walked Tommy Davis intentionally, but Blair scored the third run of the inning when George Brett bobbled Earl Williams' bouncer.

The Royals came back for a run in the seventh on singles by Pinson, Otis and John Mayberry.

Tigers 7, A's 3

DETROIT (AP) — Gates Brown hit a two-run single to key a six-run Detroit uprising in the sixth inning and lead the Tigers to a 7-3 victory over the Oakland Athletics Saturday night.

The Tigers entered the inning trailing 3-1 against Vida Blue, who was working on a three-hitter. Al Kaline had an RBI single before Rollie Fingers relieved Blue.

Bill Freehan sacrificed and Fingers threw late to third, loading the bases. A walk to Ben Oglivie forced in a run and one out later Brown batted for Dick Sharon and laced a broken-bat single.

Other runs scored on Ed Brinkman's bunt and a sacrifice fly by catcher John Wockenfuss, who had throwing errors in the first and third innings that led to A's runs. Ray Fosse homered for Oakland in the second off winner Joe Coleman, 11-12.

Twins 6, Red Sox 2

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Home runs by Tony Oliva and Steve Braun powered the Minnesota Twins to a 6-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox Sautrday in a nationally televised game.

Dave Golts, 7-7, scattered six hits over the first eight innings. But needed relief help from Tom Burgmeier in the ninth as the Twins handed the American League East leaders their fifth loss in the last seven games.

Brewers 6, Angels 5

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Johnny Briggs capped a three-run, ninth-inning rally with a run-scoring single Saturday, lifting the Milwaukee Brewers to a 6-5 triumph over the California Angels.

Two home runs by Bruce Bochte and a two-run single by Bobby Valentine had helped the Angels to a 5-3 lead entering the Milwaukee ninth. But Bob Coluccio opened the inning with a single, and one out later, Pedro Garcia singled.

Singles by John Doherty and Denny Doyle preceeded Valentine's third-inning hit. Morris Nettles hit a chopper in front of the plate and reached second when catcher Charlie Moore threw wildly past first.

Tennis tourney shattered by upset-minded Indians

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — A pair of young brothers from faroff Madras, India—Vijay and Anand Amritraj—shattered the serenity of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships Saturday with a deadly fusillade that produced two of the three upsets in the men's division.

First, Anand, 22, and the elder, playing on obscure outside court No. 18, polished off 10thseeded Manuel Orantes of Spain 6-3, 6-4, 6-2—a one-sidedness that stunned even young brother, Vijay.

Vijay, 20, taller, more graceful and a bit more famous, had a bigger and more discriminating audience in the center court at the West Side Club where he won a 2½-hour thriller over fourth-seeded Bjorn Borg of Sweden, 6-1, 7-6, 3-6, 1-6, 6-2.

It also was a big letdown for the sensational 18-year-old Borg—the game's new wonderkid and holder of the Italian and French championships— who battled two sets only to lose in the fifth, double-faulting at match point.

The third upset was scored by Ray Moore from South Africa, who eliminated the bearded Tom Gorman of Seattle, seeded 15th, 4-6, 6-4, 6-7, 6-4, 75.

The seeded ranks withstood other assaults but experienced some uneasy moments. Stan Smith, No. 3, bidding to reclaim his position as No. 1 in the world, was hard-pressed for the second day in a row before sidelining Frew McMillan, the two-fisted South African stroker 6-1, 3-6, 7-6, 6-4. The 1972 winner, Ilie Nastase of Romania, clowned and fussed on the grandstand court and his game had corresponding peaks and valleys in a 6-7, 6-1, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2 truimph over Roy Barth of Los Angeles.

Southgate Open stalled by violent thunderstorm

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A violent thunderstorm halted the play about the midway point Saturday in the second round of the $35,000 Southgate Open, but not before a determined Jane Blalock surged into the lead.

The rain and windstorm struck the Leawood South Country Club par-72, 6,023-yard couse when most golfers were beginning their second nine. Tournament officials said Saturday's front-nine scores would stand, and scheduled 27 holes Sunday to complete the 54-hole event.

Miss Blalock, who carded a two-under-par 70 in Friday's first round, turned the frontside Saturday in 35, one under regulation. Then on the backside she went birdie-par-birdie and stood five-under for the tournament on No. 13 tee when rain forced her back to the clubhouse and reduced her tournament lead to just one stroke.

Sue Roberts, who had a 71 Friday, had a 35 on the front-side and was two under for the tournament, one stroke behind Miss Blalock.

Kathy Whitworth, the defending champion and first-round leder at 69, had trouble on the greens Saturday and turned the frontside in two-over-par 38, placing her two strokes off the tourney lead.

Sandra Haynie, Donna Caponi Young and Shelley Hamlin stood at even par for the tournament. Cathy Duggan, Diane Patterson and Mary Mills were one over.

Miss Blalock was awarded $4,500 Tuesday in winning a two-year legal battle with the Ladies Professional Golf Association, but says she wants to win this tournament more than she's ever wanted to win anything in her life.

"That would make it a super week," she said. "I think I put everything together through those 12 holes today. "I really felt great out there."

J.C. Snead leads new golf tourney

ATLANTA (AP) — J.C. Snead, having his best golfing year ever although a non-winner in more than two years, climaxed his 67 Saturday with an eagle on the final hole for a 202 total and a three-stroke edge over Jack Nicklaus after three rounds of the inaugural $250,000 Tournament Players Championship.

Nicklaus, who has only won once this year, carded a 68 for a 205 over the hilly, par-72, 6,-883-yard Atlanta Country Club course in the fight which has turned into a two-man battle for the $50,000 top prize.

Snead, 32, and an 11-year tour veteran, again tied the nine-hole course record when he shot the final nine holes in 30 strokes.

He had four birdies and the explosive eagle, which traveled 30 feet from a trap right into the hole and was seen by a national television audience.

Nicklaus, the fourth leading money winner this year, but victorious in only the Hawaiian Open, also shot an eagle in his round. It came o the par-five, 542-yard eighth hole when he dropped in a 65-yarder.

Immigration office to change tactics

By WILLIAM C. WERTZ
Associated Press Writer

A drastic increase in the number of illegal immigrants, coupled with a shortage of manpower and funds, has forced changes in federal efforts to apprehend aliens, an immigration official says.

Some district offices of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service are curtailing their requests for help from local law enforcement agencies in the the capture and holding of individual illegal immigrants, the official said.

"We are concentrating our efforts in other more productive areas," Vern Jervis, a spokesman for the INS in Washington, D.C., said on Friday.

Jervis said local law enforcement officials do not have the authority to pick up illegal aliens unless they have broken some law.

But he said city and state police departments have been notifying the INS when they became aware of illegal aliens after arresting them for some crime.

"This is one of our least productive areas. It takes the most amount of our time to send a man out for these individual cases, and it costs the most money," Jervis said.

"We are just not going to be able to respond to situations jn which individuals come to our attention. We just don't have sufficient resources to continue doing all we have been doing," said Germain.

"We're in a tight bind," said Robert Seitz, a spokesman for the INS Southwest Regional office in Los Angeles.

"There will be places where we tell local we're not going to pick up anyone out of the jails. We're not going to be conducting cold searches where we don't have leads, and we're going to be concentrating on leads we know will be productive," Seitz said.

"There's no question that with more resources we would apprehend more. It's just a question of priorities," he said.

"We have not had enough manpower or money to keep up with the illegal immigration, which has gone up tremendously month by month, year by year," said Jervis.

Jervis said the INS apprehended 790,000 illegal immigrants in the last year, compared with 660,000 the year before. He said the agency expects to apprehend close to one million this year.

"But I doubt if we are apprehending a third of those who are coming in," Jervis said. He estimated six to seven million illegal immigrants were currently living in the United States, most of them from Mexico.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford plans to campaign for Republicans this fall in Vermont, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Kentucky. And he may add more trips later.

The decision for Ford to get out and do some campaigning as the new titular leader of the Republican party came after he conferred with White House counselor Dean Burch and other political leaders this week.

While Ford will campaign only for Republicans, he will urge voters to choose both Democrats and Republicans who support his fiscal policies, Press Secretary Jerald F. terHorst said Friday.

"He is going to campaign for fiscal responsibility and for candidates who will help him bring the budget under control," terHorst said.

The President's campaign is going to be "on issues, not on personalities," terHorst said. "He is not going to campaign against anyone."

The press secretary explained that the President will reinforce what he told a joint session of Congress and the nation August 12:

"The first specific request by the Ford administration is not to Congress but to the voters in the upcoming November elections. It is this: support your candidates, congressmen and senators, Democrats or Republicans, conservative or liberal, who consistently vote for tough decisions to cut the cost of government, restrain federal spending and bring inflation under control."

Ford expects Congress to be adjourned by the time of his first campaign speaking date, Oct. 7, when he will address a big Republican event in Barre, Vt., in honor of retiring GOP Sen. George D. Aiken.

If the legislators are still in session, terHorst said, Ford will have to determine whether his presence is required in Washington.

After the salute to Aiken, Ford is scheduled to speak at Republican fund-raising events Oct. 9 in Philadelphia, Oct. 16 in Indianapolis, and Oct. 19 in Louisville.

A White House aide said September and October will be packed with short trips like the ones Ford has taken to Chicago and Columbus, Ohio since taking office.

He predicted that Ford will have a tough schedule and may resume a pace he followed as vice president when he travelled more than 100,000 miles in nine months.

The President apparently likes the pattern of going out to make speeches and returning so that he can still get in half a day's work in the Oval Office.

Kidnaper sentenced

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — William A. H. Williams, convicted of extortion in the kidnaping of Atlanta Constitution editor Reg Murphy, has been given a 40-year prison sentence.

U.S. District Judge William O'Kelley handed down the sentence Friday after Williams read the court a statement tearfully saying he would not seek mercy.

Murphy, 40, was released unharmed after being held nearly 50 hours last February. Cox Enterprises, Inc., owners of the Constitution, paid $700,000 ransom, which was recovered when Williams was arrested at his home in nearby Lilburn, Ga., hours after Murphy's release.

Williams, 34, was sentenced to consecutive prison terms of 20 years for extortion, 10 years for use of a firearm while committing a felony and 10 years for using the mail in a demand for extortion.

Pan Am continues in red

By STEPHEN H. MILLER
AP Business News Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Pan American World Airways isn't the only airline having trouble coping with soaring fuel prices, tight money and declining international travel.

But it holds special prominence as the biggest American international air carrier. It has also been losing money since 1969 and all signs this past week pointed to another bad year.

Pan Am said as of the end of July, it had lost $32.4 million. In July alone it made only $446,000 on its 90,000 miles of air routes, a decline of 95 per cent from the previous July.

In that year, said Pan Am, fuel prices had rocketed 153 per cent and general operating expenses were up 15 per cent.

All in all, it was another indication the airline was headed for its worst year since 1971, when it lost $45 million.

The day the July figures were announced, a New York mutual fund sold 1.5 million shares of Pan Am at $1.75 a share. The fund had paid some $37 million for the stock when it acquired it from 1968 through 1970. It sold for a total of $2.63 million.

During all this, Pan Am was still awaiting word from the government on its request for a temporary subsidy of $10.2 million a month for mail carrying.

The airline's chief executive said at week's end he was confident the government would grant the subsidy, but predicted it would be "several weeks" before a government decision is made.

Pan Am's troubles are generally traced back to 1966, when it announced it was ordering 25 Boeing 747s at a total cost of $525 million. That year was a good one for Pan Am and other airlines and Pan Am earned almost $110 million in the next two years.

By the time the jumbo jets went into service in 1969, vastly increasing the number of available seats and touching off tight competition for passengers to fill them, passenger growth had fallen to only 3 per cent.

In that first jumbo jet year, Pan Am lost more than $26 million. It has lost money every year since then: $26 million more in 1970, $45 million in 1971, $28 million in 1972 and $18 million in 1973.

The airline's troubles led to the 1972 ouster of Chairman Najeeb Halaby. Halaby's successor, William T. Seawell, appeared to be making progress until the airline industry was rocked by last year's fuel shortages.

In size, money and the complexity of its problems, Pan Am has come a long way since it opened for business in 1927 flying one plane on a 90-mile route between Florida and Cuba.

District delegates named

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A congressional candidate and the brother of the outgoing state chairman are among the 60 members of the Republican State Committee selected this week in congressional district caucuses.

The state committee will meet here Sept. 10 for an organizational meeting. Lowell McCuskey, Linn lawyer, is expected to replace Albert Rendlen of Hannibal as state chairman.

McCuskey was selected a committeeman, as was Charles Rendlen, brother of Albert Rendlen, who was named a state Court of Appeals judge.

Arthur O. Martin, GOP candidate for Congress in the 1st District, was re-elected to the committee.

A LEGAL QUESTION

VICTORIA, B.C. (AP) — The British Columbia Medical Association has endorsed a report from its drug habituation committee opposing a suggestion that doctors be responsible for committing heroin users to compulsory treatment. The committee said it favors compulsory treatment, but under "a legal procedure which would provide the defendant with adequate safeguards and protect the physician from exposure to criminal threat."

NOTICE TO CONCTRACTORS

Sealed bids will be received by the City of Sedalia, Missouri, at the Office of the City Clerk until 5:00 P.M., September 16, 1974, or bids may be filed with the City Clerk at the City Council Meeting between 7:30 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. on the above date, for furnishing the necessary labor, tools, equipment and supervision to demolish and remove 15 houses, (including outbuildings, garages, barns, sheds & dead trees).

The work consists of demolition and removal of 15 houses, including outbuildings, garages, barns, sheds and dead trees (including clean up of all debris and trash at all of the lots, and grading and leveling ground surface to permit mowing with tractor mowers).

Bids will be publicly opened and read aloud at the City Council Meeting at 8:00 p.m. on September 16, 1974.

The Contractor is required to obtain Demolition Permits from the City Building Inspector before starting work on demolition of the houses, and the Contractor shall plug all sewers below ground level, using either concrete or a cast iron plug.

Proposals shall be submitted in sealed envelopes marked on the outside "Bid on Demolition of Buildings" with the name of bidder.

The City of Sedalia reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive any irregularities in the bids.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of 30 days after date of bid opening.

BIG THREE UP!
G.M., Ford, Chrysler Hike Prices.

DETROIT—To keep up with recent rises in the price of steel, the Big Three auto manufacturers announced new increases on cars and options.

This is GM's seventh price rise since the end of the '73 model year. Increases have included not only the basic vehicle but extra-standard equipment, optional equipment and destination charges. The increases average over $550 per vehicle over final '73 model prices.

Extraordinary Increases

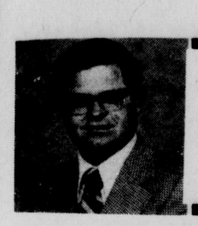

The multiple price increases put into effect by the auto makers are unusual for the industry, which in the past tried to limit increases to one per model year.

However, the recent rises in the cost of materials have forced the auto ...

THE LATEST REASONS WHY EUROPEANS BUY MORE FIATS THAN ANY OTHER CAR ARE NOW IN OUR SHOWROOMS.

When a European buys a new car he's got a lot of problems he has to consider.

The average European gas price is 93¢ a gallon. Many cities are more overcrowded than the worst the U.S. has to offer. And most highways don't have any speed limits.

To add to a European's problems, there are over 50 different cars to choose from.

Some buy the Fiat 128. A car that's smaller on the outside than a Volkswagen Super Beetle, yet bigger inside than an Eldorado. It also offers, at no extra charge, things most cars don't even offer at an extra charge: Front-wheel drive, rack and pinion steering, front-disc brakes and radial tires.

Other Europeans need a little bigger car, so they buy a Fiat 124. A family car whose handling and performance are more like that of a sports car.

Of course, if they're looking for a real sports car, we have the Fiat 124 Spider. It has a hand-polished body by Pininfarina, a 1756-cc. engine and front-wheel independent suspension.

And if a European happens to be a family man looking for a sports car, we probably have the only solution to his problems. The Fiat 124 Sport Coupe. It has everything the 124 Spider has but it also has room for a family of four.

Now if you've been considering buying a small car this year, it may be because you've realized it's the answer to the gas shortage, the overcrowded cities and the ever-increasing car costs you're currently facing.

California adopts new rape law

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Harassing questions about a rape victim's prior sex life will no longer be permitted in California trials under a new state law.

Calling the measure a landmark change in the state's 100-year-old rape statutes, Gov. Ronald Reagan signed the legislation Friday.

Supporters said the bill would reduce the embarrassment and intimidation that keeps many rape victims from reporting the crimes.

"The jury tears her apart if she's had a boyfriend or has had sex in the past. We contend that's not relevant to whether she's been raped," said Geraldine Greenwood, a lobbyist for the National Organization for Women.

Under the law effective Jan. 1, testimony about an alleged rape victim's prior sexual conduct cannot be introduced in a trial until a special hearing is held.

The jury may hear the evidence only if the judge finds it is relevant to the credibility of the victim as a witness. It could not be used if it dealt with whether the victim consented to the act.

Testimony is also permitted about the victim's prior sexual relationship, if any, with the defendant.

"This keeps the victim of a rape from becoming the victim of the trial," said state Sen. Alan Robbins of North Hollywood, author of the bill. "The rape laws have gone almost a century with no change. This is a first step."

He was Roy E. Duncan, 48, of St. Joseph, Mo.

The Nebraska State Patrol said the truck hit the second freight car of the train at a crossing on Highway 50. Two freight cars were derailed and the highway was blocked for several hours.

Valley Forge Life's Family Life Plan

Low Cost Term Life Insurance For Men and Women Ages 18-60

Watch the stars come out this weekend on the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon to fight Muscular Dystrophy—September 1 and 2.

Note these low cost features

- At Age 35, $10,000.00 of protection for $5.00 a month.
- Double Indemnity increases protection to $20,000.00—total cost $6.00 a month.
- Family Coverage available at equally low rates.
- All policies include—waiver of premium thru age 50—guarantee of convertibility to age 65—guarantee of renewability to age 70.

An Important Message from Jerry Lewis inside

A MESSAGE FROM VALLEY FORGE LIFE

We Believe in People—That's why we're in a people's business—life insurance. WE BELIEVE you deserve adequate protection at a price you can afford. WE BELIEVE you are entitled to essential security whether or not you belong to a special group and WE BELIEVE your age or sex should not prevent you from getting the amount of protection you want and need.

We Also Believe in Good Causes—That's why our company has joined the fight against Muscular Dystrophy, and that's why we urge you to sit down and write a check to this tremendously worthy cause. You can send it, if you wish, c/o Valley Forge Life and we will handle all bookkeeping and banking at our expense.

Sincerely,

Thomas F. Tucker

Thomas F. Tucker
Vice President

We believe in helping people with a need... BELIEVE IN US!

A MESSAGE FROM

Dear Friend,

What a year this can be for kids with Muscular Dystrophy, and all of us who want to help put an end to this child-crippling disease.

In 1974, we're hoping to raise the kind of money that will mean tremendous and immediate strides toward knocking out dystrophy and related diseases, once and for all. It can be done...and will...if each of us helps.

The folks at CNA have helped us bring this message to you entirely at their expense. This means that 100% of every dollar donated as a result of this appeal will go directly to Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America to support its lifesaving work.

CNA Financial Corporation, of which Valley Forge Life Insurance Company is a part, has joined in the fight and has made a substantial contribution to Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America. As a result, this contribution enabled CNA to join us in calling your attention to another important way you can help MDAA -- or any other charity -- and your family at the same time.

Did you know it's possible for you to purchase term life insurance and allocate a percentage of the benefits to MDAA, or any other charitable organization you wish to support? Whatever percentage you specify for charitable contributions -- be it 10%, 25%, 50%, 75%, or even the full face value of the policy -- that amount of your premium is tax-deductible if a recognized charitable organization is named an "irrevocable beneficiary". Just keep your policy in force and -- if you designate the cause closest to my heart -- the future benefits will be received by MDAA in your name.

If, for example, just 1,000 Americans name MDAA as a 10% beneficiary of their policies, and each person has just $10,000 total protection in force, that would be one million dollars of insurance...

$1 MILLION AUTOMATICALLY EARMARKED FOR MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY ASSOCIATIONS OF AMERICA, TO HELP STAMP OUT MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY, ONCE AND FOR ALL!

Another important way to help is through our annual Labor Day Telethon. The Telethon has truly become one of the most important

JERRY LEWIS

National Chairman—
MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY

events in my life, and the yearly increases in support of it by Americans everywhere only reaffirm that we're the most caring, most generous and dedicated people in the world.

This year, the Telethon needs an important head start if it's going to do the big job we're depending on it to do. We need your help -- to build and support new diagnostic clinics; to provide research grants which will enable scientists to find the cure that we believe is just around the corner. All I ask is that you stop for a moment and think about all the good you can do. Then...please...sit down and make out a check to "MDAA, Inc." and mail it to me at MDAA, Dept. FW, 810 Seventh Ave., New York, N.Y. 10019. Every single dollar is vitally important and, whether your contribution is a dollar...or two...or more, we'll thank you from the bottom of our hearts for joining the fight. And, of course -- whatever the amount -- your entire contribution is tax deductible.

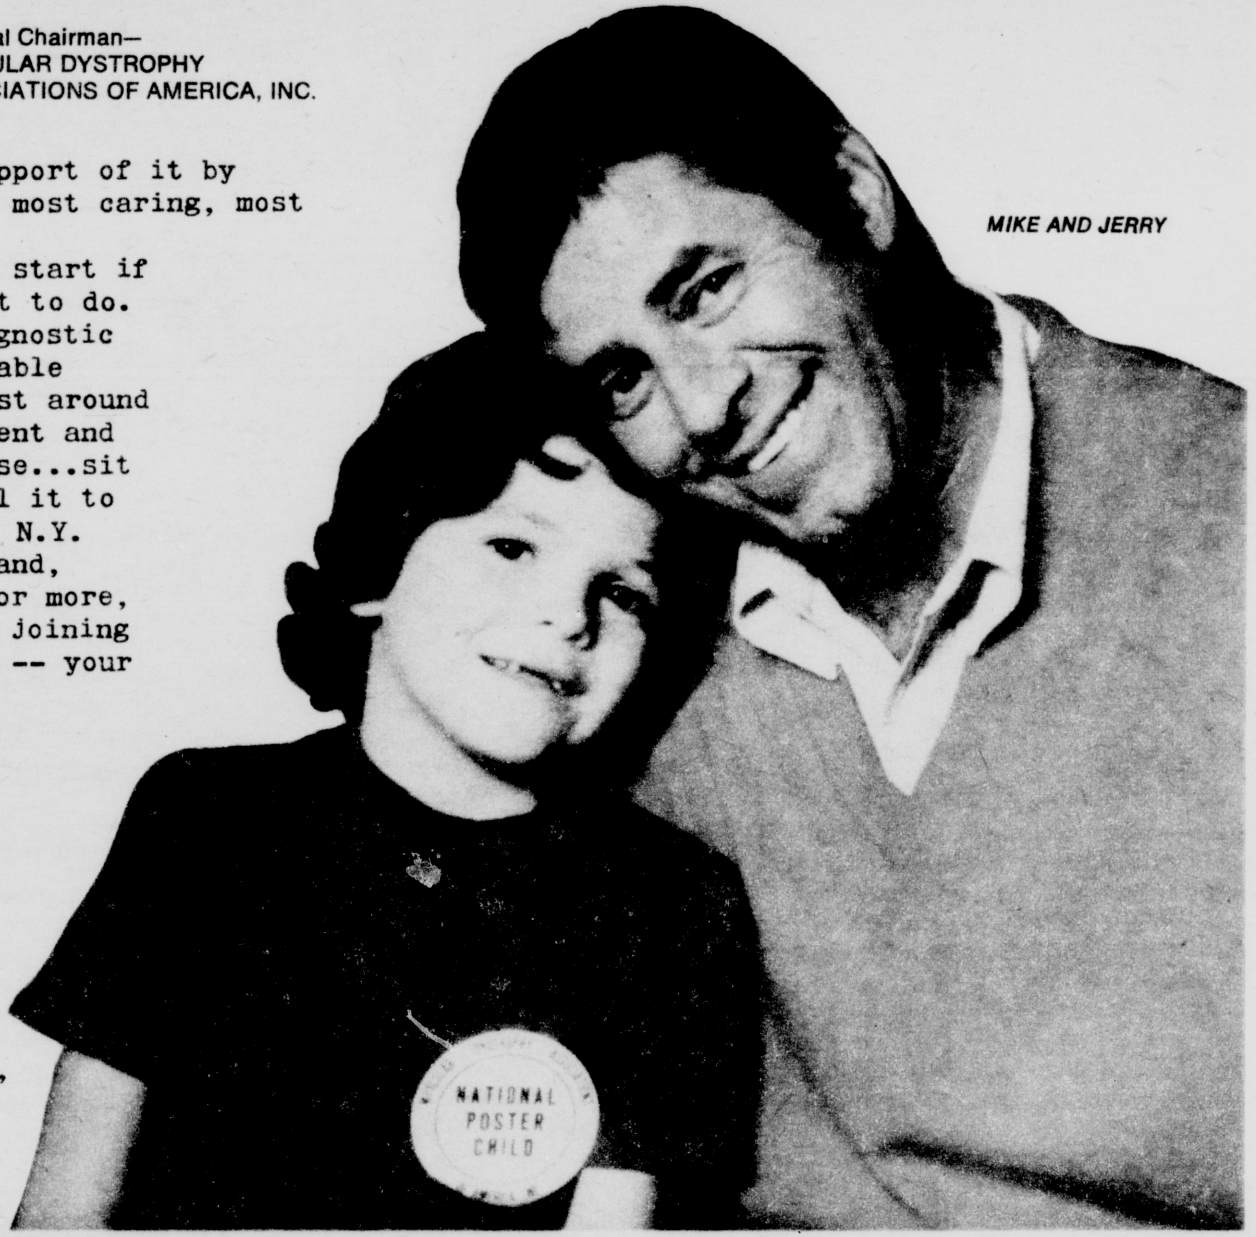

Also, I hope you'll take the time to read the material in this folder from Valley Forge Life Insurance Company and consider naming MDAA as an irrevocable beneficiary for all or a part of the policy's benefits. It can do so much good for kids like Mike, and it will give you a great spiritual lift.

Whatever you decide to do, please take some action right now. Thank you for your time and your help!

With love from me and all "my kids" to you and yours,

Jerry Lewis

MIKE AND JERRY

Women and Men May Apply for $10,000—$15,000—$20,000 or $25,000 Coverage!

And You Can Include Double Indemnity for only 50¢ per Month per $5,000 And All Your Children for Just 75¢ per Month!

The VFL Family Life Plan is a complete Low Cost Term Insurance Plan . . . you can apply for up to $25,000 depending on your needs. You no doubt have some questions and we've put the complete story down in this booklet so that you can apply today with the application enclosed.

As you notice in the headline on this page our coverage is for Women and Men. This is because today's woman is often a breadwinner too. This plan is equally good for the single parent, man or woman, or for the family with two parents.

What, exactly then, does the VFL Family Life Plan Offer?

Pure term life insurance. The type of insurance recommended by many consumer advocates. Low cost, high in value. It does one thing and one thing only: it pays your beneficiary the money you feel must be there when you're not. When the need may be so important for you or your spouse.

It's for young people with limited budgets who may otherwise be unable to provide sufficient protection for their growing families. It's for the older person too, with greater financial responsibilities because it promises the most protection for every dollar spent.

But why choose our plan when there are dozens of term life plans available? Judge for yourself . . .

Low term insurance rates

The Rate Table on page six shows precisely how little it costs to add substantially to your present life insurance. If you qualify, you can have from $10,000 to $25,000 of protection for the low monthly rate indicated at your age level. If you like, compare our rates with others available and see if the VFL Family Life Plan doesn't make good sense for you and your family!

Double Indemnity for Accidental Death—

You can DOUBLE your coverage on whatever amount you select! Our "double indemnity" feature provides your beneficiary double the face value shown on your policy, in the event you or your spouse die accidentally. It's available on any amount of protection you choose at just 50¢ per $5,000. For example, for just 50¢ a month, $5,000 of coverage doubles to $10,000—and for just $2.50 a month, a $25,000 policy would pay $50,000 to your beneficiary in the event of your or your spouse's accidental death.

If you're 60 or under, you should apply today!

You and your spouse are both eligible to apply for as much as $25,000 term life coverage each! You may select $10,000 . . . $15,000 . . . $20,000 or the full $25,000. Your spouse may select as little as $5,000 protection, if desired, or as much as you select. And either or both of you can apply for the Double Indemnity feature!

Your policy is GUARANTEED RENEWABLE to age 70!

You enjoy added peace of mind, knowing that, once issued, your policy renews AUTOMATICALLY—right up to age SEVENTY—regardless of the condition of your health! As long as you continue to pay premiums when due, it cannot be cancelled by anyone but you. What's more . . .

Inflation in the last ten years has reduced the purchasing power of $10,000 to only $6,382.* Has your family's life insurance protection been increased to keep pace?
Based on U.S. Consumer Price Index

Your premium rates are already set for each 5-year period and can't be increased!

The low figures shown in the table on page six show exactly what your monthly premiums will be for each five year term period. Your scheduled rates can never go up—the amount your beneficiary will receive can never go down. Isn't that the way it should be?

Both you and your spouse can convert your coverage to the same or smaller amounts of Ordinary Life Insurance—a privilege which is yours without a physical or any other proof of insurability—anytime up to age 65! And because this is an all-family protection plan . . .

Whether you have one child, or enough for two basketball teams—each dependent child from age one month through age 23 can be covered for $1,000, and all you pay is one all-inclusive premium of 75¢ a month! At age 24, each of them is guaranteed the right to convert their coverage to Ordinary Life Insurance up to 10 TIMES their coverage under the VFL FAMILY LIFE PLAN. That's $10,000 each—issued regardless of their health or occupations—and without a physical or any proof of insurability!

Low-Cost Protection for All Families

We will waive your premiums if you become disabled!

Each of us counts on having a long and healthy life, but isn't it comforting to know if you, the insured, should become totally disabled for six consecutive months or more at any time through age 50, the VFL FAMILY LIFE PLAN will pay all your premium payments while your disability continues, to age 70! Total disability means that you, the insured, are unable to engage in any employment for which you are reasonably qualified by education, training, or experience.

Exclusions

The Accidental Death benefit is not paid for death from: Suicide, whether sane or insane; sickness other than infection from an accidental injury; flight as a crew member on any aircraft; or injury received while committing an unlawful act. Death must occur within 90 days of the accident. Waiver of premium does not apply to self-inflicted injuries or injuries received while committing an unlawful act.

How Does a Family Determine how much Life Insurance it needs?

Professional financial advisors say that while individual circumstances vary, generally your life insurance should be 5 TIMES YOUR FAMILY INCOME. Another way to arrive at a figure that will be realistic for you is to take this simple test. Just check one box in each of the 4 categories, then add up the total Point Values, and multiply that number by your total family income. Do it right now.

10 Important Questions Answered

About Valley Forge Life's Family Life Plan— Low-Cost, High Value Term Life Insurance —You Can Believe In!

1. Why term life insurance?
Because it gives you the most protection for the least amount of money. Isn't that the right combination for you?

2. Who is eligible to apply for coverage?
Anyone from age 18 through 60 who is in normal good health can apply. Issuance of the policy is not guaranteed, the policy is issued based upon your answers to the health questions on the application, so please be sure to answer them completely.

3. What about your children?
All of your youngsters from 1 month through age 23 can be covered for $1,000 each. Regardless of how many children you have (or will have in the future), all of them can be included for just 75¢ a month!

4. Can your insurance policy be cancelled?
Your policy is Guaranteed Renewable to age 70. As long as you continue to pay premiums when due, your policy cannot be cancelled by anyone but you and will remain in force until your 70th birthday.

5. Can your rates be changed?
Your rates are frozen for each five year period. We guarantee your right to renew following each five year period at the exact rate shown for each new age bracket.

6. Can you convert your coverage to Ordinary Life Insurance?
Definitely! Your policy guarantees both you and your spouse the right of converting your coverage at any time up to age 65.

7. What is the DOUBLE INDEMNITY feature?
It's an attractive low-priced way to DOUBLE the amount of coverage you or your spouse select, entitling your beneficiary to TWICE THE FACE VALUE OF YOUR POLICY in the event you or your spouse die accidentally. This chart shows how easily it works:

The Term Life Coverage You Select	Cost Per Month For Double Indemnity	Amount Paid For Accidental Death
$ 5,000	$ .50	$10,000
10,000	1.00	20,000
15,000	1.50	30,000
20,000	2.00	40,000
25,000	2.50	50,000

It's true—if you select $25,000 term life coverage, you pay only $2.50 a month for $25,000 accidental death coverage—$50,000 cash payment in all! And this low cost for Double Indemnity is the same for all adults, regardless of their age!

8. What exclusions are there?
The policy does not cover death by suicide in the first two years.

The Accidental Death benefit is not paid for death from: Suicide, whether sane or insane; sickness other than infection from an accidental injury; flight as a crew member on any aircraft; or injury received while committing an unlawful act. Death must occur within 90 days of the accident. Waiver of premium does not apply to self-inflicted injuries or injuries received while committing an unlawful act.

For residents of North Dakota, suicide is not excluded after the first year. For residents of Missouri, suicide is not excluded unless contemplated at the time of application.

9. How are premiums paid?
Your choice! Monthly, Quarterly, Semi-Annually, or Annually. Choose the plan which is most convenient for you!

10. How does the "irrevocable beneficiary" work?
Whomever is designated as "irrevocable beneficiary" cannot be replaced or changed without his consent. If a charitable organization such as MDAA is named, the premiums for its percentage of benefits are tax deductible.

FOR RONA BARRETT,
author of "Miss Rona," an autobiography

Since you had muscular dystrophy when you were young, what advice or encouragement can you give a parent whose child is similarly afflicted?—F. Maguire, Albany, N.Y.

● Don't do what my parents did! Don't regard the child as a mental cripple, too. And space out doctors' visits. That's what I dreaded—I was on an endless trek to them. Nor should you be overly attentive or pitying. A sensitive child would resent that. As for encouragement, my sister (she suffered from MD, too) and I were incredibly fortunate. We overcame the disease by a stubborn determination not to succumb. It's rare, but if we did it, I suppose it can be done. But to this day, I still hold on when I go upstairs. And if I fall down and have no support, I have to figure out a way to stand up.

FOR BOWIE KUHN, baseball commissioner

How come you were not in Atlanta to see Hank Aaron hit his 715th home run?—Doug Tokeshi, Claremont, Calif.

● I had made a previous commitment in Cleveland. Also, I had been in Cincinnati when Henry tied the record with his 714th home run. My decision that Aaron should play unless he was physically unable caused some rancor in Atlanta. I felt my appearance there might adversely affect what should have been a completely positive situation.

FOR GLORIA SWANSON

I heard that you shrank your own tumor after doctors said you needed surgery. How? — Mrs. E. L. Mitchell, Englewood, N.J.

● I starved my tumor by not eating any animal protein. I abstained from all meat for over two years. My tumor vanished. So did the doctors who wanted to give me a hysterectomy.

FOR BRENDA VACCARO

I recently saw the movie "I Love My Wife." Did you have to put on all that weight?—A. Statile, Somerset, N.J.

● I tried to! The director gave me two weeks to gain 20 lbs. He was crazy. It was impossible. I ate everything in sight—banana splits, shakes, cheeseburgers—everything! And every morning at 4 a.m. I'd lurch into the bathroom for a glass of Alka-Seltzer. Nevertheless, I only gained eight pounds. So the costume department made me a "fat suit" of foam rubber and cotton. I was uncomfortable for a few days, but I got used to it—and the teasing.

FOR CONNIE STEVENS

Does Eddie Fisher see your children, and do you take them with you when you travel? — Caryn and Lori Herman, Hackensack, N.J.

● Yes and yes. Eddie sees Joely and Tricia whenever he can, but it's difficult for us to keep up with each other because we both travel—usually in different directions. The girls—they're five and six—do come with me. They love traveling; I think they've got gypsy blood in their veins. And their nurse-tutor makes sure they don't miss out on school.

FOR RICH LITTLE of "Hollywood Squares"

I have seen many of your imitations and wonder whom you enjoy doing most?—J. Ashe, Glen Rock, N.J.

● I guess my favorites are Humphrey Bogart, Johnny Carson and Richard Nixon.

FOR SEN. WILLIAM PROXMIRE (D-Wis.)

I read somewhere that you are a speed reader. How fast can you read?—John Miller, Austin, Texas

● My reading speed varies. I am able to read an average novel of about 300 pages in 40 minutes. Of course, this may vary somewhat depending on the complexity of the material. In the course of my daily work, I find it necessary to read vast quantities of testimony, hearings, reports, "Congressional Record" material and the like. My reading speed for this material is about 1,000 words a minute.

What do you do if a contestant gets nervous?—M. B., Salem, Ore.

● All contestants are nervous. As soon as they walk on, I try to effect a warm and protective relationship. I want them to feel comfortable, so I try to calm them with a smile and a personal remark, and look them straight in the eye. If someone really falls apart at the seams, I put my arm around her, give her a squeeze, let her lean on my shoulder and pat her head. It works!

FOR ANGIE DICKINSON, actress

Did you do any other kind of work before you became an actress?—J. B., Buffalo, N.Y.

● Yes. I worked as a secretary at an aircraft plant in Burbank, Calif., to pay for my early dramatic training.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

When I learned that actresses Lauren Hutton and Jennifer O'Neill began as fashion models, I decided that's how I wanted to start my career. But then I heard that to make a go of it girls must either be very cold and aloof, or else overly "friendly." How should I act?—J. M., Canton, Ohio

● According to couturier Lew Prince of Aldrich, most models are cold. Those stories about manufacturers making "advances" are old hat. Prince's advice is to head for N.Y. and pound the pavements to the fashion houses. Become a staff model and learn to sell clothes—not yourself. When you're familiar with the business, work free-lance, then branch out as a photographer's model. And it's essential, of course, to be skinny. Cultivate an aloof smile. And make sure you look alluring in whatever you wear. GOOD LUCK!

A few rays of hope—indicating that perhaps we can break the back of our shameful welfare problem.

It is possible to turn back spiraling welfare costs. This is no idle rhetoric. In fact, we're already doing it.

Jointly administered by the Department of Labor and the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, the Work Incentive program (WIN) resulted in welfare-grant reductions of well over $100 million last year alone. That, of course, is important to all of us as taxpayers. But of far greater importance is the salvaging of the thousands of families who had been trapped in a life of poverty.

It's my personal belief that the poor really do want to work and, given a helping hand, will prove their worth on the job. I also believe that those citizens who have been forced to become dependent upon society should be given the opportunity to enjoy the self-respect and dignity that go with earning their own way, of contributing to—rather than drawing from – the nation's tax-dollar supply.

Here are four examples of people who have learned to help themselves. They are not "rags-to-riches" stories, but they are just as inspiring.

MARIA CHAVEZ, 28, has climbed from a $242 monthly welfare check to more than $800 in monthly wages in two short but busy years.

Separated from her husband, Mrs. Chavez was waging a seemingly hopeless struggle to sustain herself and her two small children in the expensive city of San Francisco.

Then Maria learned about the Work Incentive program, whose goal is to remove family heads from the AFDC (Aid to Families with Dependent Children) rolls and make them self-supporting. She applied for and was accepted in a six-month clerical-training program operated by the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks under contract to the U.S. Labor Department. Maria was so anxious to land a job that she raced through the six-month course in three months, devoting her lunch hours to learning to operate a keypunch machine.

Today she is a keypunch operator with Pacific Fruit Express. She's planning to go to night school to learn computer programming. No matter how hard she has to work, she's determined to give her children a better life and a good education.

MARCEL ROTHERING, a Fountain City, Wis., father of five, has moved up from a $323 monthly welfare grant to an income expected to top $15,000 this year.

A job drifter with no salable skills, Rothering had been a chronic welfare recipient before he came to the WIN program. Today Rothering earns union scale of more than $8 an hour as a heating and air-conditioning serviceman with Quality Sheet Metal and Heating Co. in nearby Winona, Minn.

The transition required six months' on-the-job training, which WIN arranged. After a year on the job, Rothering has convinced his boss, Roger Biltgen, that he's the best serviceman in the area. "At first," says Biltgen, "no one wanted to hire him; now everyone's trying to hire him away from me."

Naturally, not every welfare parent can hope to move so quickly into a highly paid job. Mrs. Chavez got into a union-run training program; Mr. Rothering had a basic mechanical aptitude. But success is a relative thing, and any job that leads to self-sufficiency can be satisfying to the individual.

PHYLLIS BAILEY of Webster, Mass., is the mother of two small boys. She is separated from her husband. She reluctantly accepted partial assistance because she simply couldn't make do on the $36 she earned working part-time as a counter girl in a doughnut shop. When she heard about WIN, she voluntarily signed up.

After testing her, the WIN team concluded she'd be happiest in a job working with people. They placed her in a work-experience program at the Southern Worcester County Rehabilitation Center in Webster, a sheltered workshop for the physically and mentally handicapped. Phyllis was so anxious to make good that she studied for her General Educational Development test every evening for eight weeks while working full-time during the day.

Today Phyllis Bailey is happily employed as a rehabilitation supervisor at the Rehab Center, earning $120 a week. She studies psychology in the evenings and hopes to get her Associate in Arts degree someday.

Mrs. Bailey is delighted with the opportunity that the Work Incentive program provided her. She comments: "It's a bad thing for people emotionally and psychologically to be financially dependent on society."

MARTHA MANUEL of Kansas City, Kans., has come a long way from her $149 welfare grant to her present status as a proud, tax-paying citizen.

A divorced mother with one young child, Mrs. Manuel was eking out an existence. Then, through the Work Incentive program, she was placed as a cook's helper at Montgomery Ward's restaurant in Kansas City's Indian Springs Shopping Center. Her starting salary was $2.62 an hour. Mrs. Manuel was quickly promoted to the position of cook at $3.00 an hour and now presides over the kitchen as head cook, earning $3.40 hourly.

Martha Manuel speaks for all the successful WIN placements when she says, "WIN is for people who want to work."

But we think that the Work Incentive program is much more than that. It's a truly humane approach to the welfare problem. And it's a program that benefits all of us—the poor, who really want to work; their children, who deserve a better start in life; and the taxpayers, who, without WIN, must continue to support those families subsisting on AFDC payments.

What Is Social Status Really All About?

True or False: Status is like money—the more you acquire, the more you want.
(See number 5)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Your social status depends a great deal on what you think of yourself.
2. How directly we face a person when talking with him indicates the status we accord him.
3. When a person's status is raised by some circumstance – such as a job promotion – not only is his morale lifted, but his ability to think, make quick decisions and perform mental tasks is improved.
4. There is one sure indicator of the status or prestige you are accorded by your neighbors and associates.
5. Status is like money—the more you acquire, the more you want.
6. There are two kinds of status.

ANSWERS

1. True—as demonstrated by psychological studies at two leading universities where it was found that the way a person thinks of himself subtly communicates itself to others and has a marked effect on the way they think of him. The investigators found that "self-acceptance and social acceptance are inextricably combined."

2. True. Studies show that, generally speaking, if we face a person directly when speaking to him it indicates that we accord him appreciably more status than if we face him only partly. Human-behavior specialists John R. Wenburg and William W. Wilmot sum up the findings on this score in their treatise, "The Personal Communication Process": "Generally we use a more direct body orientation toward another if he is of higher status."

3. True. University of Michigan studies have shown that when a person's status is elevated in a group or organization his mental performance is markedly improved. Tests show that he becomes more keenly alert, with quicker reactions, and is generally faster on the uptake. The investigators note that "The experiments demonstrated that a person's performance improves when his status is increased and his performance suffers when his status is decreased."

4. True. It has been shrewdly observed that what people say about you behind your back indicates your standing in your community. Many a man never knows what his friends and associates really think of him until he chances to learn what they say when he is not around. The revelation can make his self-esteem range from pleasurable pride to ego-deflating disappointment.

5. False. A survey of a random sample of men and women has shown that the opposite is true—the less status people have, the more they want and the more status-conscious they are. Conversely, it was found that the more status a person has, the less he tends to be concerned about it.

6. True. As Indiana University's Dr. J. Jeffrey Auer observes in his definitive monograph on the subject: "The first kind of status is . . . what the person is thought to be. This is determined by the business, professional or social position he holds, and by his reputation. . . . A second kind of status is . . . what the individual proves himself to be." And it's pointed out that the person who lacks the first kind of status has it within his power to earn the second kind of status "by giving evidence of his sincerity, poise, credibility, fairness and trustworthiness."

The Doctor Lets You In

When Medicine Becomes an Art

You often hear doctors remark about their colleagues being good or bad "diagnosticians." What does this mean? And why is it that some doctors, even with excellent medical training, are mediocre diagnosticians? . . . Doctors today have a great deal of medical equipment designed specifically to help them make diagnoses: stethoscopes, scales, instruments to peer into nose and ears, electrocardiographs, X-ray machines, equipment to test your breathing, etc. They also are able to use laboratories to perform biopsies and blood tests, grow cultures and for other examinations. All of these data are fed back to the doctor. And it is at this stage that medicine becomes an art. Often, an abnormal finding has no meaning in itself. To jump to the correct conclusion may require what scientists call an "inductive leap."

Usually, the key to a correct diagnosis is an awareness on the part of the doctor of the possibility of a given disease. For example, there may be several reasons why a patient experiences considerable weight loss: poor utilization of food intake, depression, cancer—or tuberculosis. To come up with a diagnosis of tuberculosis—even when there is no cough or blood or no X-ray sign—the doctor must first think of it as a possibility. If he does, he will take one more test—culture of the sputum. If the TB germ is found in the sputum, there is no doubt about the diagnosis. It is this "art"—this "human factor"—that makes for a good diagnosis.

Jerry Lewis:

At Mid-Life—And Still Working a 20-Hour Day

Ellen Blume Graham

"My wife Patti," says Jerry, "is the rock in my life, the one solid, steady, constant thing."

"I don't have any social life. I consider it a waste of time. I have fun with my work—my work and my family. That's what it's all about."

Before I interviewed Jerry Lewis in his dressing room at Las Vegas' Sahara Hotel, I watched his show. I thought it wittier, more mature, in better taste than his shows in the past. Also, Jerry seemed more relaxed, both during and after the performance.

A policeman blocked my way when I headed backstage to see Jerry. "No one's allowed back here," he barked. I was rescued by one of Jerry's assistants. "Jerry doesn't want to be bothered by lots of fans," he told me. That, too, was a switch. But one fan did get ahead of me. I saw Jerry kiss her good-bye just before I walked into his dressing room.

FAMILY WEEKLY: Who was that?

JERRY: She's very special, and has been for the past 11 years. I first met her when she was five. She's deaf, but she goes to all of my performances. And she's made me the most wonderful presents. Once she brought me a set of glasses and she had them inscribed with all my appearances since I started in show business. Her name is Cynthia Poetzl, and she lives in Mount View, Calif.

FW: What does she get out of coming to your performances?

JERRY: It's amazing. I make sure she has a seat in the front row, and she lip-reads most of what I say. And while she can't hear anyone else, she can listen to my records and hear my voice. Doctors don't have an answer.

FW: During the past 25 years you've raised a fortune for Muscular Dystrophy and you're going to do another telethon benefit from the Sahara Hotel in Las Vegas on Labor Day. Why this particular charity?

JERRY: That's the only thing I won't talk about—how I got started. Patti has been married to me for 30 years and even she

FW: How much money have you raised for Muscular Dystrophy?

JERRY: I'm not sure about the total, but last year the telethon raised $13.6 million—$3.5 million came from big business, the rest was from individuals.

JERRY: Twenty hours? That's a joke. Last year I did pre-production work on the telethon for 54 hours, and had a seven-hour production meeting afterward for my next show. That's a total of 81 hours.

FW: How have you and Patti managed to stay together for 30 years?

JERRY: The question would be worded better if you'd asked how she's managed to put up with me for 30 years. She's the rock in my life, the one solid, steady, constant thing. Without her understanding, I'd be a bum. She says she's still waiting for me to grow up.

"Believe me, there is nothing greater than getter older and finding peace of mind."

FW: You haven't made a film for almost two years, and the last one was never released. Why?

JERRY: That's "The Day the Clown Cried"—a film I wanted to make so badly that I made it according to my terms: I financed it myself. I won't rush it into release until I am satisfied with it. I've been editing it for a year and a half, without pressure. It's still in the cutting room and when I think it's ready to be shown, I'll set up a release.

FW: What do your sons do?

JERRY: Gary just closed at the Grand Hotel. Ron works as an assistant for me; Scottie, Chris and Anthony go to Notre Dame; and Joseph, who's ten, is a bum. He hasn't brought in a quarter.

FW: Before Joseph was born, you made such a fuss about wanting a daughter, including throwing a party with the slogan "Think Pink." Did this have any effect on Joseph when he found out?

JERRY: You know, it's funny, but this never occurred to me till just now. Joseph was the most beloved baby in the world. As for wanting a daughter, I said that before any of the children were born. But at least I have a granddaughter—Gary's daughter, Sara Jane.

FW: You're 48 and have been in show business for 43 years. What was your most difficult period?

JERRY: Between 18 and 26, when I went through a period of utter stupidity.

FW: In what way?

JERRY: I didn't recognize my responsibilities. I was so selfish. Believe me, there is nothing greater than getting older and finding peace of mind.

FW: Has your way of life changed?

JERRY: Certainly. My habits changed. Take Las Vegas. Before, I wouldn't even get out of my tuxedo to go into the casino after my performance. I seldom stopped gambling before eight in the morning. Now, I never leave my dressing room between 6:30 in the evening, just before my first show, and 2:30, after I finish the midnight show. I'm in bed by 3:30, get up at 7:30, eat breakfast and play 18 holes of golf until noon. I work till four, take a nap till six and am back in the dressing room by 6:30.

FW: Can you get along with four hours sleep?

JERRY: I have for years. The doctors can't understand how, but I do.

FW: What about your social life?

JERRY: I don't have any. I consider it a waste of time. I have fun with my work—my work and my family. That's what it's all about.

FW: Your work in films has been appreciated a great deal more by foreign critics, particularly in France, than in the United States. Why is this so?

JERRY: Are there American critics? I remember what Sam Goldwyn once said. "Don't let critics bother you. Don't even ignore them."

THE MAKING OF A PRESIDENT
Holbrook becomes Lincoln

Making an actor's face "disappear": Viewers watching NBC's special on Carl Sandburg's Abe Lincoln (scheduled to be shown Friday, September 6) won't see the hours of preparation that actor Hal Holbrook had to undergo in order to come out looking like Lincoln. During the shooting of the special, Holbrook spent three hours a day (6 a.m. to 9 a.m.) being made up by Charles Schram. By the time Schram was through, not one part of Holbrook's own face was visible. Everything was false. Rubberized sections included forehead and nose, cheekbones, eye bags, jowls and lips. Plus, of course, a wig. It took another half hour just to remove the makeup at night. Nor could the makeup be used the next day. Schram spent five and a half hours every night baking new rubber molds to be used the next day.

Unless your town has been very lucky or unusual, you've read this summer of a few tragic drownings of strong young men and women or of fathers (it's usually men) in the prime of life. How does it happen? Could it happen to you or to someone you know? According to Prof. Susan Baker and Paul Dietz of Johns Hopkins University, many of us are indeed potential victims unless we change our habits. The researchers noticed that although everyone has heard the warning, "Don't eat and then go swimming," hardly anyone appears to understand the danger associated with alcohol and swimming. The researchers performed blood-alcohol-concentration autopsy tests on 45 adult drowning victims. The tests revealed that nearly half of the drowned men and women, 21 of the 45, had been drinking before they began their swim. Four had "positive blood-alcohol concentrations" and 17 were "significantly intoxicated."

JORDAN'S DREAM HOUSE

EXERCISED ABOUT IT

But I'm not sure that this is wise,
As, glancing with a fearful eye,
I watch the cars that pass me by.
I keep close to the curb, and yet
By weaving drivers am upset.
(Upset of mind not body—oh,
I hope that this is always so!)
As on through traffic thick I pedal,
I think that I deserve a medal:
Such bravery you'll seldom see,
At least not in that coward, me.

The dignified old gentleman at a party bowed his head and wept quietly as a young woman with a screechy voice sang, "My Old Kentucky Home." The hostess, touched by the man's emotion, tiptoed over, touched his shoulder gently and asked, sympathetically: "Are you a Kentuckian?" "No, madam," came the tearful reply, "I'm a musician." *—T. J. Can you spot the Camel Filters smoker?

©1974 R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

Almost everyone going fishing today has a gimmick. Pick the one who doesn't. 1. No. He's called "The Ole Skipper" by his landlord and the finance company. Gimmick: Never sails without a good tide, fair winds, and his rubber duckie. His hard-drawing cigarettes are like a cheap lighthouse—they blink twice, then go out. 2. Nope. He's Tim Idsol, known as "The Codfather." Gimmick: Takes no chances. Even smears shark repellent all over himself—doesn't know it's really meat tenderizer. His "Long-long" cigarettes send the smoke so far, it carries an overnight bag. 3. No. He's Stu Mack Paump. Makes all sea trips "by rail." He even gets seasick watching his shorts go around in the laundromat. His cigarettes have so much charcoal in the filter, he's had to join the miners' union. 4. Right. He's here to catch fish—not the latest fads and gimmicks. Wants no nonsense in his cigarette, either. Camel Filters. Good taste. Honest tobacco. 5. He's the cook, Phil Layasol. His meals are so bad, African pygmies come to dip arrows in his soup. 6. & 7. No and No. They're porgie and bass.

End worries from rust damage forever

REMOVES ROTTING RUST AND REPLACES IT WITH FIRM NEW COATING

Incredible rust destroyer brushes on over rusted areas... Dries in only 30 minutes... Replaces rust with tough new protective coating

Big ugly blotchy spots of rust eating away at automobile fender. With Rust Killer new coated surface replaces old rusted areas and works on rusted areas only. Simply apply it, re-paint it and rusted spots become invisible.

Rust looks bad, but that's only the beginning. Those orange, runny looking spots are actually eating away dollars. Rust is eating the body out of your car . . . rotting away metal furniture . . . destroying metal grills and railings It's destroying constantly and it's costing you money. Now you can end the ugly look of rotting rust and the costly damage with an amazing new compound called Rust Killer. It actually replaces flaking, deteriorating rust with a brand new metal surface that is guaranteed never to rust again.

New Space Age Miracle Compound

Easy to use. Simply brush it on. It washes off any painted areas adjacent to it, dries in minutes and after it's been applied you simply paint over it with matching colors and no one will ever know that once an ugly destructive rust blemish was eating away at precious metal. So stop scouring, sanding year after year, and stop watching those dollars rust away. Apply Rust Killer once and for all and end the worries of costly rust damage forever. Generous 4 ounce can, yours for only $2.99.

No Risk Guarantee:

Stop watching those thousands of dollars you've got invested in metal around the house rust away. Order Rust Killer now, apply it to lawn furniture, bicycles, iron railings, fenders, radiator grills, any metal exposed to salt air, rain, roads treated with harsh winter chemicals. Rust Killer must prevent rust from returning, showing even the slightest indication or you may return immediately for full money back.

THIS WEEK'S WONDER WORD...

"COP"

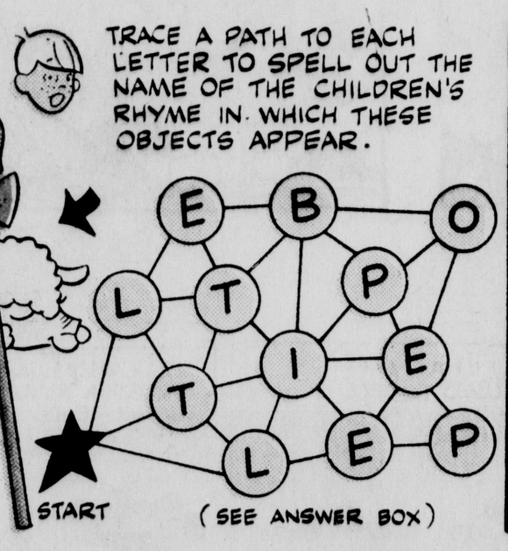

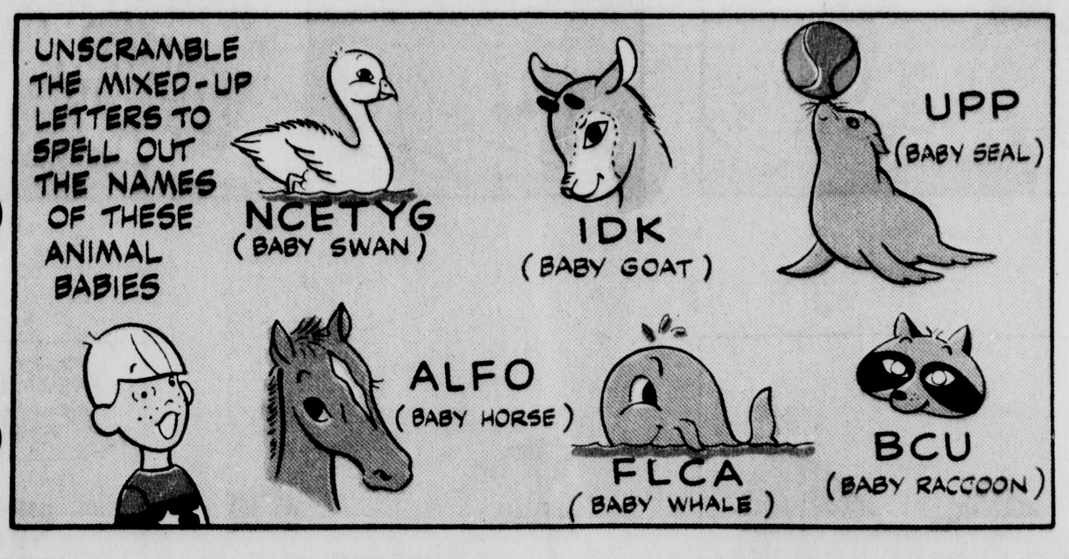

THE NAME "COP," A SLANG WORD FOR POLICEMAN, MAY HAVE COME FROM THE INITIALS C.O.P., WHICH STOOD FOR "CONSTABLE ON PATROL." STILL ANOTHER IDEA IS THAT "COP" IS A SHORT FORM OF "COPPER," A NAME THAT REFERS TO THE COPPER BUTTONS AND BADGES POLICEMEN ONCE WORE

NATURE COLORS

FLAMINGOES

THE FLAMINGO EATS IN A PECULIAR MANNER. DUNKING ITS HEAD UPSIDE DOWN IN THE MUDDY WATER, THE FLAMINGO RAKES ITS BENT BEAK BACK AND FORTH. IN THIS WAY, IT SIFTS OUT SMALL WATER PLANTS AND ANIMALS THROUGH THE COMBLIKE STRAINERS AROUND THE EDGE OF ITS BEAK.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

"WHY DOES A COMET HAVE A TAIL?"

A COMET IS MADE UP OF A GREAT SWARM OF SPACE DUST AND FROZEN GASES WHICH GLOW BRIGHTLY IN THE SUNLIGHT. A COMET COMES FROM FAR OUT IN SPACE AND WHIZZES AROUND THE SUN IN A GREAT EGG-SHAPED PATH. WHEN A COMET IS FAR AWAY FROM THE SUN, IT DOES NOT HAVE A TAIL. BUT AS IT NEARS THE SUN, SOME OF THE FROZEN GASES THAW AND STREAM OUT LIKE A LONG GLOWING TAIL, ALWAYS IN A DIRECTION AWAY FROM THE SUN. THE TAIL USUALLY GETS BIGGER AND LONGER AS THE COMET GETS CLOSER TO THE SUN.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — To save on buying expensive tub toys for my little one, I use a pump-type hand lotion dispenser. Clean well before using. A child can use this to fill a plastic margarine cup. A couple of small sponges are also fun for tub play. — BARBARA.

•

DEAR POLLY — To protect her strong, beautiful nails, my daughter wears rubber gloves when dishwashing. She puts a small cotton ball in the tip of each glove finger to prevent tearing the gloves. — MRS.J.P.

DEAR POLLY — Repainting metal furniture before winter storage? First, wipe with vinegar and let dry before painting. The new paint is much less likely to peel. — JANIS.

DEAR POLLY — Making a dress? Lay buttons or whatever in place and secure with transparent tape. Try the dress on, change position of buttons to suit and your sewing chore is simplified and shortened. — DOT.

•

DEAR POLLY — Last summer my parents and I spent a lot of time fishing. To remove the smell of bait and fish from our hands, we washed with soap and water, and then rinsed with a well-known green mouthwash. — DEB.

DEAR POLLY — I keep a clean vegetable brush near my clothes dryer to brush any lint off of clothes that come out of the dryer. — MRS. F.D.

DEAR POLLY — I bought one pretty floral queen-size flat sheet and had enough material to make two beautiful housecoats. I trimmed one with pink lace and the other with blue; one for myself, and another for a gift — and both for a very small cost. — MRS. A.P.

DEAR POLLY — When a hand-washed garment is too heavy to wring by hand, or shouldn't be wrung, I pop it in the washer, turn the machine to "spin," and when the cycle is completed I take the garment out to hang and dry. — MRS. J.F.S.

•

DEAR POLLY — We antiqued three old trunks to match the decors of three bedrooms and lined each with beautiful wallpaper. They look great, provide storage space for each room's linens, blankets and so on, and drawers and closets are much less crowded. — BILLE JANE.
